TURKS WARN ALLIES

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 30 (AP)—Turkey was reported reliably today to have notified Great Britain and France her mutual assistance obligations to them would be annulled if the Allies became involved in war with Soviet Russia.

CIANO TO BERLIN IN PEACE MOVE; CALL REICHSTAG

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 30—The final phase of Nazi Germany's "peace offensive" was ushered in tonight with formal announcement that Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano would arrive here tomorrow and that the Reichstag would meet next week to hear a government declaration of prime importance.

Count Ciano left Rome tonight for Berlin at the express invitation of Adolf Hitler. His journey is being undertaken, authentic quarters said, to orientate relations retween Italy and Germany and clarify points of current import, including the far-reaching Russo-German collaboration.

Whether Ciano will be in Berlin during the Reichstag meeting is problematical. But next week will be a period of important developments in any case. Hitler is expected to address the body

Ciano is expected to bring word of the latest developments in Mussolini's peace approaches to Paris and London.

The present German attitude was summed up thus by one spokesman:

"England and France can now have peace any time they want it."

The Berliner Nachtausgabe put it this way:

"One thing is certain: Political decisions in Europe can be made only on the basis of the existing 100 per cent unanimity between Germany and Russia.

"The decision lies with England and France whether it shall be peace or war."

WAR BULLETINS

PARIS, Sept. 30 (AP)—A high command communique issued at 8:40 p. m. (2:40 p. m. E. S. T.) today follows:

"Enemy artillery action in the region immediately to the east of the Moselle (river). We replied with artillery fire.

"Large aerial activity on both sides."

PARIS, Sept. 30 (AP)—A Polish government in exile was officially established in France today as Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, former president of the Polish senate, took the oath of office as President of the Republic in a dramatic ceremony at the Polish embassy. President Ignace Moscicki, interned in Rumania where he fled from Warsaw, had just announced his resignation.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 30 (AP)—German warships today seized three Danish freighters in the Kattegat and took them to a German port, according to a report from the lightship at Laeso island. The Rota, 840 tons, and the Diana, 942 tons, were bound for England with bacon and butter; the Lyneas, 656 tons, was bound for the Netherlands with woodpulp.

PARIS, Sept. 30 (INS)—Belgian troops on the French frontier are transferring hurriedly to the Netherlands border, the Paris Soir reported tonight in a dispatch which aroused new fears of an early German thrust to the west. Under a Luxembourg dateline the paper said: "Defense work along the Albert Canal and the Demer river had been renewed."

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (INS)—Germany prepared for a nationwide celebration of the capture of Warsaw and the end of the Polish campaign with the announcement today that Hitler had ordered public buildings throughout Germany be decorated for seven days.

Turkey's foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, has been in Moscow since early this week discussing Turkey's role in the Near East, greatly altered by Russia's emergence as Germany's partner in redrawing the map of eastern Europe.

Informed sources here said Saracoglu had discussed with Soviet leaders a Black sea pact which, under Russian leadership, would be signed by all Black sea nations, Rumania and Bulgaria as well as Turkey.

Informed persons asserted a proviso releasing Turkey from her obligations in the event of war between the western allies and Russia had been put into definite mutual assistance and economic agreements between Turkey and Britain and Turkey and France now ready for signature.

CLOSES DARDANELLES

Saracoglu, it was said, had agreed with Russian leaders that Turkey would close the Dardanelles to warships of all belligerent nations, thus neutralizing the Black Sea.

Necessary preliminaries to a Black Sea pact would be some kind of settlement of Bulgaria's claims against Rumania for Dobruja, which Rumania gained from the Bulgars in the Balkan war and World War settlements.

It was believed that after his return from Moscow Saracoglu would go to Bucharest to confer on this with Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian foreign minister.

(However, it was announced in Bucharest that Gafencu would leave for Moscow Monday to confer with Soviet officials. It was said they would participate in talks already started by Russian, German and Turkish leaders.

SAY BESSARABIA SAFE

(It was also reported in official Rumanian circles that Rumania had received assurances "through a third party" that Soviet Russia had no intention to seize Bessarabia, which was gained by Rumania from Rus-

Canada Planes Trail U-Boats

GRAND MANAN, N. B., Sept. 30 (INS)—Bombing planes of the Royal Canadian Air Force swooped low over the Bay of Fundy today after fishermen aboard a smack cruising between Grand Manan and St. John reported sighting a submarine only a few hundreds yards from their small craft.

Waterfront observers believe the submersible probably is the same undersea craft sighted by American fishermen east of Rockland, Me., last Thursday. Speculation centered on possibility that submersibles have small hidden bases on the coast, or are being provisioned and fueled by mother ship far out in the Atlantic off the ship lanes.

German Prince Killed in Action

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (INS)—Victor, hereditary Prince of Ratibor and Corvey and heir to one of the biggest estates in Germany, has been killed in action in Poland, the German press reported. Bearer of one of the oldest titles in Europe, the 23-year-old Prince was a lieutenant in the German army.

War Diary

30th Day

Behind the Front—The war in Europe, so strangely unlike the devastating conflict which everybody dreaded a month ago, seemed today to have returned to the political front with the pronunciamentos of statesmen booming ever more loudly than the big guns.

The first month of the war has virtually passed and the jockeying still goes on, with Italy's status as a neutral unchanged and Turkey's still a matter of speculation. The latest assurances of mutual friendship which Germany and Russia have given the world and their bid for peace left the next move up to the Anglo-French allies.

The Germans were reported to be jubilant over the new agreement and the hearty cordiality accorded Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop in Moscow. The Russians, on the other hand, were described as worried and puzzled, while the Italians displayed growing anxiety. Turkey, it was reported reliably in Ankara today, has notified Great Britain and France her mutual assistance obligations to them would be annulled if the Allies became involved in war with Russia. That would close the Dardanelles to the Allies, preventing them, should future changes warrant, from moving either troops or supplies eastward. With Turkey neutral and Italy likely to remain neutral, the war, if it is to go on, would be confined to the western front—to the two great barriers France and Germany have erected.

A Polish government was established on French soil today with resignation of Ignace Moscicki, executive interned in Rumania, and inauguration of Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, former president of the Polish senate, in Paris.

The German government meanwhile invited Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano to Berlin where he is due tomorrow afternoon. From Rome comes word that Ciano will outline Premier Mussolini's latest proposal for peace, believed to include creation of a buffer Polish state.

Announcement was made in Berlin that the Reichstag will be called into session next week to hear a statement by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler that also is expected to be a new peace offer based on the "buffer state" plan.

At Castel Gandolfo Pope Pius XII received a delegation of Poles today, consoling them on the loss of their country. They needed consolation, for in spite of their hopes and fighting spirit there seems now to be little likelihood they again will call the land their own. Certainly there was no reason to suspect Russia would surrender her gains of the past month.

On Land, Sea and the Air—Activity was at a minimum today. The Scandinavian countries were growing unceasingly bitter as toll of neutral ships sunk reached 10. Localized fighting was reported on the western front. Polish troops were leaving Warsaw for prison camps. No air activity was reported.

CALL REICHSTAG TO HEAR HITLER

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Reichstag, called only to hear Hitler give an exposition of his policies, was summoned today to meet "in the coming week."

The Reichstag last met Sept .1 and heard Hitler proclaim himself "the first soldier of the Reich" just before he plunged into Poland behind the Nazi legions which since have ended the eastern republic's existence.

The announcement that the Reichstag would meet again said only it would "hear a declaration of the government."

It was assumed this time it would hear a statement on the partitioning of Poland, on German-Soviet Russian relations and on the stand toward Great Britain and France in their war against Germany.

The German-Soviet conditions for European peace raised the question in some diplomatic quarters today whether they were Adolf Hitler's "last chance offer" to Great Britain and France.

After co-operating with Russia in the fourth partition of Poland, Germany stipulated two essential conditions for peace:

1—That she and Russia alone decide the fate of Poland—In effect, that there be no interference

Hitler Ready to Blast Britain

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 30—While German troops massed across the border for the major onslaught which will launch the "guerre totale," Premier Edouard Daladier met in secret conference with the heads of all branches of French defense today.

The Premier and his conferees put the final touches on the strategy to be used in meeting this attack, the success or failure of which may largely influence the character of the western world.

The meeting was an extremely secret one. No formal communique was issued, but the fact that Daladier conferred with his military chiefs instead of with his diplomatic aides indicated strongly that nothing but a rejection, backed by force of arms, was contemplated in answer to the Russo-German "peace offensive."

It was noteworthy that while all signs point to a "super-offensive" by the Germans on land, Daladier summoned his naval and air chiefs to the meeting as well as Commander-in-Chief General Maurice Marie-Gustave Gamelin and the great strategist of the land forces, General Alfonse Georges.

NAZIS TO 'SHOOT WORKS'?

This factor tended to confirm belief that the Allies anticipated Nazi Germany may "shoot the works" at the British fleet, the city of London, channel ports and other centers simultaneously with a double envelopment land offensive on the western front.

The situation on the border continued to be quiet, although increasing activity by German patrols was noted, resulting in further skirmishes in the Saar and Blies regions. There was considerable artillery activity in the Wissembourg area.

French forces downed two more German scouting planes and lost one of their own.

New French advances along the northeastern portion of the Saar front were claimed and the Russo-German "peace ultimatum" was seen as an attempt to "blackmail" the allies into surrendering to Germany.

A terse war communique, No. 54, stated merely:

"The night passed without incident. There was activity by patrols in the whole region east of the Saar."

French government circles indicated France's real reply to the latest Moscow maneuver will be given on the field of battle, and that answer will be war to the finish.

75, But Fights 2 Bandits and Nearly Wins!

They couldn't have robbed him if there hadn't been two of them!

Seventy-five-year-old Patrick A. Gately of Neponset st., Mattapan, was emphatic about that today when he told Judge Daniel W. Casey in West Roxbury court how he had been robbed.

"I could have handled either of them alone," he said. "I was giving the first young fellow more than he wanted when the other jumped in, and between them they outnumbered me."

Arrested as Gately's assailants were Lawrence E. Keefe, 21, of Hyde Park ave., West Roxbury, and Harold W. Nicholson, 19, of Woodlawn st., Jamaica Plain.

Charged with unarmed robbery of Gately and larceny of a watch and 20 cents, they were held for the grand jury under bail of $1000 each.

Patrolman John Brauneis of the West Roxbury station testified he caught them as they sought to flee.

Gately, a former cemetery employe, said the youths lured him to Bussey st., West Roxbury, on promise of a job.

Near Tragedy Mars Bridal

ACUSHNET, Sept. 30 (AP)—The joy of a wedding here today was overshadowed by an accident in which the bride's brother and a friend were injured seriously just before the ceremony.

Francis McDonald, 15, the bride's brother, and Edward Roberts, 24, were rushed to Acushnet Hospital after their car crashed into a tree. They had been on their way to pick up the bride and the bridesmaid.

While they lay unconscious in the hospital, Honora McDonald and Charles Cashmire were married.

MOTHER OF 8 DEFIES COURT

Mrs. Catherine Barry of Fern st., Waltham, mother of eight children, and Judge Frederic Crafts of Waltham district court, also a parent, are far from seeing eye to eye—and Mrs. Barry is standing pat.

This was her decision today on Judge Crafts' order that two of her youngsters must walk a mile and a half to school, or take the consequences.

On complaint of the school department, the jurist gave her until next Wednesday to make up her mind, adding that his own 10-year-old son walked two and a half miles to school.

"My mind's made up now," the indignant mother declared today. "It's too far for them to walk and any action taken against me I will fight to the highest court," she added.

Attendance Officer Philip W. Ham told the court that the two Barry children, George, 11 and Edward, 13, had been absent from their classes at the Whittemore school for the past three weeks.

In her own defense Mrs. Barry, who pleaded not guilty, said she had kept them at home because the distance to the school was too far, and they were required to carry their lunches, which she considered a menace to their health.

She said the children had formerly attended the nearer South Junior High School, but were transferred when the seventh grade in that school was eliminated. The older child, Mrs. Barry said, had been held back a year by a mastoid operation.

Over at St. John's Church, Beverly Farms, Liberty Dick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evans R. Dick of Beacon Hill and Beverly Farms, will become Mrs. Henry Mosle Winter at that same hour.

The young bride will return from her honeymoon to schoolroom classes for she is enrolled at Radcliffe.

M'GAH RETURNS TO WOBURN JOB

After months of wrangling in and out of court and climaxed by a stormy scene in which the mayor and two police officers kept him out of his locked office, Martin J. McGah today resumed his duties as Woburn city collector.

Since his election a year ago, McGah had found the path of civic duty anything but smooth.

From the start, he experienced trouble because of the bonds every city collector is expected and required to file, and every time there was a hitch, Mayor Kane appointed an acting collector.

Four days ago, the situation boiled to a climax. McGah's position and bond had been upheld by the Supreme Court, but Mayor Kane declared that the bond mentioned by the court applied only to 1938, and would have to be renewed for the current year.

He therefore instructed two police officers to keep McGah out of the city collector's office in City Hall, muttering:

"If I can't do anything else for the taxpayers of Woburn, I can provide them with one day when they can't pay any taxes."

While the city was confronted with possible payless paydays for city employes, McGah obtained the proper bond, had it certified by State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long and then had it accepted today by the mayor.

Mayor Kane abandoned a plan to appoint Michael H. McCarron acting collector, and ruefully read a summons directing him to appear in Supreme Court before Judge Henry T. Lummus next Tuesday and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court of the Supreme Court for removal of McGah.

HUDSON TO HONOR SENATOR—Arriving at South Station today, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana (left) is greeted by welcoming committee from Hudson, Anthony J. O'Malley, Dominis Paulino and Harriman Reardon. The senator, a native of Hudson, will attend celebration there in his honor.

Sen. Wheeler Here, Sees F. D. 3d Term

President Roosevelt may get a third term, "whether we have a war or not," Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, one of the leaders in the fight against the administration's "court packing bill," declared today as he arrived at South Station en route to his old home town of Hudson.

Met at the train by a host of Hudson dignitaries, Sen. Wheeler declined to commit himself on his position regarding repeal of the arms embargo.

"You'll hear how I stand tomorrow," he smiled affably. He is to speak over a nationwide radio hookup from Hudson tomorrow.

Chairman of the powerful interstate commerce committee, Senator Wheeler was far more eager to discuss railroad and air transport legislation than to review the arms embargo controversy.

He was one of the leaders in the fight for the Lea-McCarran bill, which eventually resulted in the creation of a separate air authority controlling commercial flying.

Asked whether Montanans would be surprised at his position on the arms embargo, the Senator, who, like Senator Borah and others of the hard-bitten old school, has never worried unduly about his constituency, declared he "couldn't say."

"They, like you, will find out how I stand tomorrow," he explained.

Asked if the President would seek a third term in case of war, Wheeler replied:

"You might have Roosevelt back whether there is a war or not."

33 Loan Firms To Face Charges

Atty.-Gen. Dever charged today that certain small loan agencies financing compulsory automobile insurance had placed policies with companies not licensed to conduct business in this state.

Dever's charges came as he pressed forward with a sweeping investigation of methods employed by small loan companies in handling this type of insurance.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Maurice M. Goldman, meanwhile, revealed that 33 complaints against small loan companies had been filed with the state banking authorities.

Dedicate Lincoln Shrine Tomorrow

TROY, Ind., Sept. 30 (AP)—A living shrine to Abraham Lincoln will be dedicated tomorrow in this quiet Indiana community which knew him as a tall, rawboned youth learning early lessons of courage.

The shrine is to be called "Lincoln Ferry Park" and among its tall trees soon will stand a life-size statue of the Civil War President.

McCarthy Absent At Attack Trial

Due in municipal court today to press a damage claim against his accused assailant in a City Hall rough and tumble, Sept. 12, Jeremiah F. McCarthy, noted Charlestown political figure, was mysteriously missing.

His counsel, Atty. John J. Connannon, said he feared McCarthy had been a victim of foul play.

Defendant in the suit brought by McCarthy is James J. O'Keefe, Back Bay restaurant proprietor and "Tobin brain-truster." McCarthy alleges O'Keefe knocked him down and kicked him, injuring him so that he was put to great expense for medical care and his earning capacity was affected.

BOY SETS $10,000 FIRE

PRESQUE ISLE, Me., Sept. 30—County Atty. Parker P. Burleigh said today an 11-year-old boy had confessed setting a $10,000 fire which destroyed a storehouse and two barns at Blaine.

BIG U. S. FLEET FOR HAWAII?

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 30 (AP)—The Los Angeles Times says a "fully balanced, fast striking" force will be detached from the United States fleet here Thursday and dispatched to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, to form a "powerful spearhead of security" in the Pacific.

Unofficial reports said the force would include the first and second destroyer squadrons, the tender Dobbin, cruiser Raleigh and carrier ship for scouting and bombing planes. Official confirmation could not be obtained.

Already stationed at Pearl Harbor are 72 giant flying boats of Patrol Wing 2, 14 submarines of Squadron 4, four units of Destroyer division 28 and nine units of Mine Squadron 1.

The Times says the new shift will enhance the fleet's strategic position in the Pacific and relieve the growing congestion of naval base facilities at San Pedro and San Diego, particularly as to air operations.

The 100 ships and 400 planes which took part in four days of tactical exercises off the Southern California coast have returned to their San Pedro and San Diego bases.

Sir Malcolm Seeks Divorce

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, the speedboat and automobile racer, has filed a petition for divorce from Lady Campbell, citing two co-respondents.

The petition appeared among the defended cases in the Michaelmas divorce list, but was not expected to be heard until next year because of the heavy docket.

Lady Campbell, the former Miss Dorothy Whitall, was married to Sir Malcolm 19 years ago.

Non-Saluting Barber Surrenders to Vets

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 30 (AP)—Picketing by World War veterans of a barber shop of a man they charged refused to salute the American flag bore results today when the owner announced he had turned over the establishment to two employes.

The veterans carried placards reading:

"Would you let a barber shave you who refuses to salute our American flag?"

They picketed the shop for two days.

The barber told police he refused to salute the flag because of religious scruples.

George White, Girl in Fist Fight?

She Says They Did . . . He Says 'Tain't So!'

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (INS)—Wearily, their sad old eyes resentful of things-that-shouldn't-be, Broadway chroniclers turned to their typewriters today to recount that George White, the producer, allegedly and assertedly had taken part once more in a bit of fisticuffing—this time with a starry-eyed bit of shapeliness named Lois Andrews.

Only a week ago, there fell to these chroniclers the dismal task of conveying to their public that White's right fist, good and true, had smacked down Sidney Solomon, former night-club operator, and that the tip of the producer's No. 6 brogan had administered the coup de grace to Sidney. The occasion, 'twas said, was Sidney's faux pas in tossing a beaker of scotch into White's face.

WHAT LOIS SAYS

And so it goes on, this time with Lois, who deposed:

"He hit me and called me a little—well, a little something-or-other"

The blow-by-blow (Lois broadcasting)——

"I hit him. I hit him twice. "He threw me against the door of his dressing room. "He threw me into my dressing room."

WHITE DENIES IT

Mr. White's affidavit:

"Huh! Me hit a woman? "I never, never did. And I never will as long as I live."

As White tells it, Lois and two other girl performers in a skit in his show failed to show enough pep, so he decided to cut out the skit entirely.

Whereupon, he said, Lois said to the other girls "Let's quit."

"That," he said earnestly, "is all I know about it."

Lois told a dramatic tale of cause and effect, the cause (she said) being Dance Producer George Hale, with whom White saw her dining at a night club recently. White, said Lois, spoke this peace to her:

"I don't want you to go out with Hale. Above all people, him. He's my worst enemy. I'll put you in the back line."

She sighed:

"I like Mr. White, but he's too jealous."

Mae Murray Pleads With Son to Return

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—Blonde Mae Murray, star of the silent films, turned from a court battle for the return of her 12-year-old son, Koran Mdivani, today to appeal personally to the boy, who has accused her of "selling me out to my father."

IN TEARS—Mae Murray, ex-film star, fights for custody of 12-year-old son, Koran. She claims former husband, Prince David Mdivani, poisoned the boy's mind against her.

State Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergan granted her request for an hour with the tousled-haired youth, son of Prince David Mdivani, during a recess until Monday, in her action to regain his custody from a family in nearby Averill Park. Miss Murray divorced Prince David in 1933.

Her visit with their son took her to the home of Miss Bessie Cunning and two brothers, John and Cortland Cunning, defendants in the custody trial, where Koran was sent in 1935 to recuperate from a mastoid operation. It followed an interview with the boy allowed the actress at the close of yesterdays court session, after which she quoted him as saying:

"I always loved you best and always will."

Under cross-examination Miss Murray had recounted tearfully, however, how she telephoned Koran from Albany Wednesday and was told by him:

"You've sold me out to my father, you don't love me any more and I'd rather stay with someone who does love me."

He will testify for the Cunnings when court resumes Monday.

Roosevelt Acts to Balk Profiteers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked the Temporary National Economic Committee today to keep "a constant eye on increases in prices of our domestic materials" to prevent profiteering.

In a letter to Committee Chairman O'Mahoney (D.) of Wyoming, of the committee, the President said that he believed "constant surveillance is clearly in keeping with the purposes and objectives for which the TNEC was established, and I believe that, in carrying forward such a program, your committee can well become an important part in our first line of national defense against ugly and inhuman greed."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to a statement made by O'Mahoney in opening the committee hearings Monday. O'Mahoney said then the committee's work would be emphasized by the prospect of profiteering resulting from the European war.

Mother, Girl Escape Fumes

A Brighton mother and daughter barely escaped with their lives today when fumes, seeping through an apartment house from a cooling system, drove a dozen persons to the street.

First to be awakened by spasms of coughing was Mrs. Sarah Goldberg, 39, of Lothian road. Though nauseated by the fumes, she screamed for help and dashed to the bed of her daughter, Rosamond, 19, who was nearly overcome.

Miss Goldberg notified the police and fire departments while her mother warned neighbors in the apartment building.

Two Brighton police cruisers and a special service squad car were rushed to the scene by Patrolman Edward J. Burdge, headquarters radio dispatcher, and fire apparatus was also called.

Firemen were forced to wear gas masks as they searched the building for the leak. They found fumes escaping from a broken pipe in a refrigerator in the Goldberg apartment.

Third Holdup Suspect Seized

John Dirring, 24, of Blossom st., West End, who had been sought since Sept. 11 in connection with a West End holdup, was arrested today as he boarded a fishing schooner at the Fish Pier.

Dirring, a paroled convict, was arrested by Detectives Louis Pinkofski and Paul Fraher, on warrants charging assault and battery and armed robbery of Mrs. Elsie Jackson, cashier in the offices of a Charles st. apartment house.

The victim was robbed and slugged over the head by a trio of youths.

Two other West End suspects already are in custody, one of them, Robert Evans, 17, of Blossom st., after he was surrendered dramatically by his father at police headquarters.

The third youth held is Wallace Green, 17, of Staniford st.

TOBIN SEES VETS' VISIT AS BOOM

Special Dispatch to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—Choice of Bosfon for the 1940 national convention of the American Legion will mean $15,000,000 to local businessmen, Mayor Tobin predicted today.

In a brief interview here, the Mayor repeated his gratification at the decision to hold the next convention in the Hub, pointing out that it would greatly aid merchants and hotel men.

Another cheery note sounded by Mayor Tobin was an indication that Roslindale will soon get a new $100,000 post office to replace the present quarters in a former salesroom.

This was announced after Postmaster General Farley was told of the agitation for a new structure, and replied that he would instruct an assistant to look into the matter.

Mayor Tobin also conferred with Maj. Harlowe of the WPA on setting up a frame work for administering the new WPA law in Boston. Maj. Harlowe was told the city wished to keep a close account of its contributions instead of waiting for the state administrator's report. Each locality is now required to contribute 25 per cent of the cost of each project.

BRITAIN SHUNS PEACE, PLANS FINISH FIGHT

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Authoritative sources declared today Britain would reject emphatically Adolf Hitler's offer of peace at the price of a partitioned Poland.

MEDIATOR SOUGHT TO AID PEACE

MOSCOW, Sept. 30 (AP)—The next step of the new Moscow-Berlin axis was expected today to be a search for a neutral power which would place its "peace or else" proposal before Great Britain and France.

The United States was mentioned in some circles, but a request that it mediate generally was considered unlikely because Germany and Soviet Russia were believed to fear a rebuff by Washington.

Neutral diplomatic quarters expressed belief Britain and France would feel the pressure of the agreements which made Germany and Russia neighbors with a common border in conquered Poland, assured Germany of Russian support in raw materials and hinted at "necessary measures" by Russia if the western allies spurn an offer of peace with Germany.

Unless Britain and France show an about-face on their war aims, which include reconstitution of Poland, these sources said, rapid deterioration is possible in relations of Moscow and London and Paris.

REVEAL TIGHTENED PACT

Evidence of closer ties between the Nazi-Communist partners was seen in an interview German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop gave exclusively to the Soviet press yesterday and also in an editorial in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, today.

Von Ribbentrop declared "German-Soviet friendship now is firmly established."

The government—to all appearances—went ahead with mobilization of its entire fighting power for a finish fight with Germany.

An army of "5000 census takers completed a register of some 46,000,000 persons in England, Scotland and Wales to provide the basis for food rationing and conscription of manpower for war.

A formal reply to what the British press called Hitler's "peace threat" was deferred by the war cabinet, pending consultation with France, Britain's ally against Germany. (Paris dispatches told of official indications of a French rebuff to the German-Soviet Russian overture.)

CHAMBERLAIN REPLY MONDAY

Prime Minister Chamberlain was expected to give the official reaction to the German-Russian agreement in a statement before the House of Commons Monday or Tuesday.

The Times of London, which accurately mirrored government policy in critical events of the past year, led the chorus of the British press demanding rejection of any peace proposal based on the Nazi-Soviet partition of Poland.

The Times declared Britain "would rather go down to defeat and destruction than compromise the essentials of our national being and the hopes which we now hold in trust for others."

With the rest of the press, the Times said Britain was ready to accept the full implications of a German-Russian coalition and declared, "there can be no peace with Hitlerism."

"We sought no quarrel with the Soviet, and it remains to be seen whether the Soviet desires to fasten a quarrel on us."

The Daily Telegraph declared, "The German hope of using Russia to dictate peace is doomed to failure."

The Laborite Daily Herald said the Russian-German agreement "does not shake us."

SEE GRIEF FOR NAZIS

Some diplomatic commentators contended Germany had been brought under Russian domination by the Moscow accord, and they saw in it as many disadvantages as advantages for Germany.

Russian production and transportation facilities, they argued, would prove insufficient to make up for the loss of supplies caused by the British-French blockade of Germany.

sia after the World War. The province has an area of 17,146 square miles.

(Unofficial reports in Moscow said Saracoglu's negotiations there turned on Russian demands for partial control of the Dardanelles, gateway to the Black Sea, now dominated by Turkey. Czarist Russia for a generation looked longingly at the Dardanelles.)

Turkish quarters have taken the attitude that any new pact concluded by Saracoglu in Moscow need not essentially impair Turkey's earlier pledges of mutual aid exchanged with Britain and France.

(Those pledges, pending conclusion of definite long term agreements, were exchanged by Turkey with Britain on May 12 and with France on June 23. They provided for mutual aid "in case of an act of aggression which might lead to war in the Mediterranean area.")

SOVIET MAY SHUN HITLER ARMS PACT

MOSCOW, Sept. 30 (INS)—Despite the threat of Russo-German "consultation" if the Anglo-French allies fail to end their war against the Reich, Moscow observers expressed the opinion today that no secret Russo-German military alliance has been concluded.

If this is true, it was stated, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop's recent visit to Moscow may have failed to achieve its chief purpose—conclusion of a full military pact.

Under this line of reasoning, informed quarters in Moscow pointed out, it is possible that refusal of the allies to end the war and consider the Russo-German "peace ultimatum" might leave Germany almost completely isolated.

Hitler's Own Paper 'Demands' Peace

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (INS)—Voelkischer Beobachter, Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, today called upon England to bring the Anglo-French war against Germany to an immediate conclusion.

"We know that Europe is waiting for peace from England," said the paper. "Woe to those who reject it. They will be stoned at once by their own peoples."

This latest barrage in the German "peace offensive" was touched off as the entire German press carried editorials along the same line and high German quarters hinted that Hitler might be willing to establish a reduced Polish state as a concession to attract an armistice from the allies.

Editorials in the paper urged England and France to decide with utmost dispatch whether they wish to continue the war. The papers printed the Russo-German pact as buttressing the German position.

The Boersen Zeitung carried this threat:

"If the British and French prefer war, the Russians and Germans will 'consult each other regarding necessary measures.'

GET AIR PICTURES OF SIEGFRIED LINE

By RUSSELL F. ANDERSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 30—The closely guarded secrets of the Siegfried Line are now almost an open book to the British high command, it was intimated in a statement issued by the ministry of information today describing reconnaissance flights by aerial photographers over the famed Westwall.

Possibly because they were mistaken for German fliers, the ministry declared, the British airmen encountered no resistance.

Neither German attack planes nor anti-aircraft fire interfered with their strategic task of mapping in meticulous detail the mammoth defenses of western Germany:

(Editor's Note. The German high command has made frequent claims that British planes have been shot down well within German territory.)

ONLY 600 FEET UP

The announcement said:

"Pilots of the Royal Air Force have succeeded in obtaining a remarkable series of aerial military photographs. On some occasions, the planes flew at an altitude of only 600 feet.

"The photographs show in clearest detail some of the strongest fortified zones.

"The pilots flew for miles along the Westwall, taking close-up photographs of gun emplacements and tank traps.

"They noted types of camouflage, located a network of communications and crossed and recrossed the frontier, building up a complete air picture covering many miles.

WAVED TO ENEMIES

"They flew so low that many gunners must have believed them to be German. One machine was so low over a newly mounted anti-aircraft battery that the crew could see the Germans busy camouflaging the guns.

"Upon hearing the drone of our engines, the Germans stopped working, looked and waved a greeting which would not have been so cheerful had they recognized the plane as a British bomber.

"On another reconnaissance flight, covering a part of the line previously viewed from an altitude of 21,000 feet, heavy cloud banks made photography and observation from the ground equally difficult.

"Yet our aircraft spotted anti-aircraft guns firing accurately. Several shellbursts came uncomfortably near between gaps in the clouds.

"On this flight, it was possible to photograph a huge expanse behind the Siegfried line.

"When this second flight returned to headquarters with close-ups, we were able to build up a comprehensive picture of Germany's defenses."

POLES RECEIVED BY POPE

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 30 (INS)—The people of war-ravaged Poland were urged by Pope Pius today to place their reliance in prayer and "celestial consolation."

In a private audience with August Cardinal Hlond of Poland, Casimir Papee, Polish ambassador to the Holy See and a group of distinguished visitors from the partitioned country, the Pontiff expressed his heartfelt sympathy for the first victims of Europe's war.

"There are hundreds of thousands of poor human beings," the Pope said, "who have suffered in their bodies and their souls from this war, which has resisted obstinately all our ardent and useless efforts to prevent for Europe and the world.

HEART-BREAKING VISION

"Before our eyes passes at the moment, as a vision of fearful folly, the heart-breaking desperation of a multitude of refugees and wanderers, who no longer have a country on a hearthside.

"Left to you, above all, is a faith which will not be denied. We wish and hope that God in His great compassion will not permit exercise of religion to be prohibited in your country.

"We wish also and hope, notwithstanding the many reasons which lead us to fear the noted designs of the enemies of God, that Catholic life may continue, profound and fecund.

"Your pain, so tempered with hope, will not be mixed with rancor, much less with hate. May your efforts toward justice have the comfort of the divine laws of charity.

"Only through justice and charity can be given back to the upset world the peace for which amid the tumult of arms, the cry of the people most anxiously begs, and for which, from one extreme to the other of the world, millions of sincere souls raise prayers to God as the sole supreme dominator of men and things."

Italy Votes New 'Arms Taxes'

ROME, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Italian cabinet, meeting with Premier Mussolini today, voted new taxes to meet Italy's unbalanced budget and "new military expenses caused by the international situation."

A levy of one-half of one per cent on private property was approved together with a 2 per cent tax on general business turnover.

British Steamer Aground in Fog

THOMASTON, Me., Sept. 30 (AP)—Mackay radio reported it picked up a distress signal at 8 a. m. (EST) today from the British steamer Hatbridge saying she had run aground in fog off Seal Island, Nova Scotia, but was in no immediate danger.

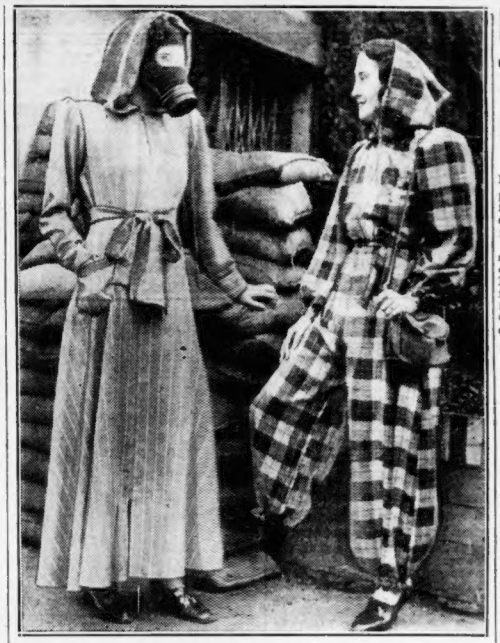
British O. K. Red Grab?

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—The London Times, which often foretells the course of British policy, today hinted that the government's war aims do not necessarily include restoration to Poland of her territory now occupied by Russia.

While asserting "there can be no peace with Hitler," the Times said British relations with Stalin "will be decided by events." It said the latest Russian-German line "restricts the Russian share of ethnic Poland."

"Russia takes over in the main White Russians and Ukrainians," the paper continued. "Germany acquires additional territory with a population indubitably Polish and seeks to enlarge the new miscellaneous Reich with lands whose claim to liberty and independence is absolute."

It added that "freedom and independence for the Polish nation, within a frontier as unchallengable as that which Germany violated on Sept. 1 and with full and guaranteed access to the sea, constitute in their own right an article of any conceivable peace."



THE LATEST IN PARIS is a fashion to fit the times for madam and mademoiselle—the black-out costume and gas-mask. They are, as the French say, "de rigeur" and, if Nazi planes bomb Paris, will be useful as well as smart.

HOLD ARMS REPEAL AMENDS JOHNSON ACT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Administration leaders in the Senate advocated the neutrality revision bill today as a strictly "cash and carry" measure, while opponents charged anew that it would grant England and France credit previously denied them by the Johnson Act.

The Johnson law, passed in 1934, prohibits Americans from making loans to governments which have defaulted on their debts to the United States.

Chairman Pittman (D.) of Nevada, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, contended, in a report concurred in by a majority of the committee, that expired "cash and carry" provisions of the neutrality law had been strengthened in the pending bill by tightening up requirements that belligerent nations obtain title to any goods purchased in this country before it is shipped.

To meet charges that the 90-day credit permitted by the bill would abrogate the Johnson Act, supporters of the proposed measure were reported reliably to be relying on views said to have been expressed to the State Department in 1934 by Senator Johnson (R.) of California, author of the loan ban.

At that time, it was said, Johnson took the position that ordinary commercial credits would not infringe on the Johnson Act.

Johnson said today that he had no recollection of having communicated his views to the State Department in 1934.

RACE ON TO WOO NEUTRALS

BUDAPEST, Sept. 30 (AP)—Europe's great rival powers today pressed determined efforts on many fronts to win the friendship and economic assistance of the small neutral nations of the southeast.

A German economic mission, seeking ways to increase the flow of vital supplies to the warring Reich, arrived in Budapest to confer with Hungarian officials. The mission, headed by Dr. Karl Claudius was expected to remain at least two days.

SECRET ATHENS TALKS

In Athens it was announced that King George II had received in audience British naval, military and air attaches. The purpose of these talks remained secret.

From diplomatic circles in Ankara came reports that Turkey was prepared to sign mutual assistance and economic agreements with Britain and France.

The texts of the agreements already had been drafted, these reports said, and awaited the signature of Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu upon his return from Moscow.

(Soviet Russian-Turkish talks at Moscow were unofficially reported to turn on Russian demands for partial control of the Dardanelles, vital gateway to the Black sea. The Dardanelles lies within Turkey).

(Soviet Russian-Turkish talks at Moscow were unofficially reported to turn on Russian demands for partial control of the Dardanelles, vital gateway to the Black Sea. The Dardanelles lies within Turkey.)

(Mutual assistance pledges, pending conclusion of long-term agreements, were exchanged between Turkey and Great Britain May 12 and between Turkey and France June 23.

(The agreements provided for mutual help "in case of an act of aggression which might lead to a war in the Mediterranean area.)

NEW PACT LOOMS

Advices from Bucharest said Saracoglu was expected to stop there on his way to Ankara to explain terms of a Black sea pact which, it was said, had been advanced by Soviet officials during his stay in Moscow.

Responsible quarters in Ankara said that the new Soviet-Turkish pact, reported nearing completion, would in no way impair Turkey's ties with France and Britain.

In Rumania, tension over the diplomatic situation was increased by reports of the impending departure of Hungarian Prime Minister George Kioseivanoff for Moscow. Bulgaria already has made demands for return of territory now held by Rumania.

Hemophilia Boy Reported Gaining

After being raced over the road from Lawrence in a police-escorted ambulance, 11-year-old John Croston, victim of the dread and rare disease hemophilia was reported gaining at City Hospital today in his battle for life.

A quick blood transfusion, performed as soon as he arrived at the Boston institution, rallied his failing strength.

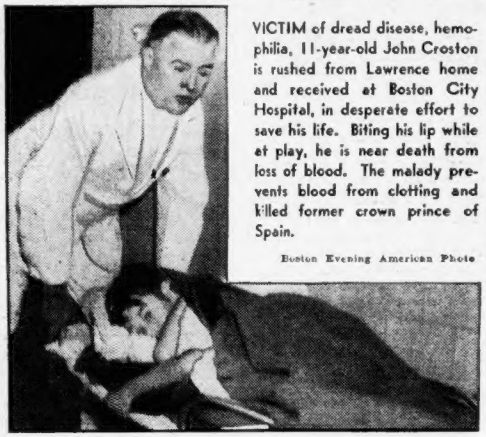
Although his name remained on the danger list, City Hospital doctors said he had a good chance for recovery.

Long a sufferer from hemophilia, a mysterious ailment which prevents clotting of the blood, the boy's condition became critical after he bit his tongue while playing near his Lawrence home.

When the flow of blood continued unchecked for some time, he was taken to Lawrence General Hospital, where the wound was cauterized and a blood transfusion was given.

With the loss of blood temporarily checked, the youngster, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Blanche Croston, and a friend, was given a police escort here. During a swift dash to the City Hospital, however, the wound reopened and the lad was reported in a critical condition on his arrival.

Physicians reported that several veins already had collapsed due to the failing blood supply, and after injections of a blood concentrate, a second transfusion was given him.



VICTIM of dread disease, hemophilia, 11-year-old John Croston is rushed from Lawrence home and received at Boston City Hospital, in desperate effort to save his life. Biting his lip while at play, he is near death from loss of blood. The malady prevents blood from clotting and killed former crown prince of Spain.

COMPLETE DOWD PROBE

More than 200 of the 325 employes under the jurisdiction of Sheriff John F. Dowd may be called as witnesses, it was said today as the special investigating committee of the Boston Bar Association completed a probe of the office.

Meanwhile, members of the committee compiled a lengthy document to be filed in the Supreme Judicial Court in substantiation of their claim that Dowd should be removed from office.

At the same time, Dowd and his counsel Francis Juggins, refused further coment in the case—declaring only that the sheriff will fight all charges.

The investigating committee claim they have all the evidence necessary to proceed with their charges, including affidavits from many county employes who work at the courthouse or at Charles Street Jail.

Meanwhile, no action had been taken by Charles M. Davenport, chairman of the courthouse commission, on the recommendation by Dowd that one employe be suspended.

The sheriff wrote Davenport that he had questioned 315 of the 325 workers under his control and that but one man admitted he had paid anyone any money.

Free-Moscicki Move in Paris

PARIS, Sept. 30 (AP)—An influential neutral official said today diplomatic efforts were being made by several nations to obtain the release of Polish government officials from Rumania.

President Ignace Moscicki and others in the Polish government have been held at various points in Rumania since Sept. 18 after fleeing the joint German-Russian invasion.

The neutral official said the Poles charged Rumania's action was taken under a German threat to invade Rumania unless the Polish government was interned. Rumanians have asserted the Polish ministers were held because they were carrying on political activity on neutral Rumanian soil.

Latvia Next in Reds' Grab Bag

LONDON, Sept. 30 (INS)—Speculation as to whether Latvia faces the same fate as Estonia was aroused here today by a Daily Exchange report from Riga that a Latvian economic delegation is going to Moscow early next week.

It was recalled that when a similar Estonian delegation reached Moscow use of her ports was demanded.

MAY BAR 'TYPOS' AT A. F. L. PARLEY

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 30 (AP)—AFL union leaders, finished with the creation of new judicial machinery to settle rivalries among building trades, faced a set of constitutional problems today vitally affecting the federation's power over two of its oldest affiliates.

One involved the status of the International Typographical Union which faces suspension for nonpayment of a special assessment levied in 1937 to finance an expanded organizational campaign to offset the upsurge of the CIO.

The other affects the Brewery Workers Union which has instituted a Federal Court injunction action in Washington, D. C., to restrain the AFL officers from enforcing a convention decision giving to the Teamsters Union the beer truck drivers organized by the BWU.

Union officers here for the AFL convention opening next week forecast some convention consideration of the situation created by the brewery workers' court suit, but were uncertain what action the Federation leadership might recommend.

The ITU is some $20,000 in arrears on the special assessment, and advance reports indicate its delegates will be denied convention seats next week, and the organization—one of the AFL founders—will be suspended.

High officers of the type setters' union said the organization turned down the assessment by referendum and has refused to change its stand on the grounds the AFL, even in convention, has no constitutional authority to impose such a levy.

Like the ITU, the Brewery Workers also have challenged the basic authority of the federation to enforce any convention mandate which alters the organizing jurisdiction they claim has been theirs for years.

More Kennedy Children Home

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—The United States liner Manhattan, carrying 1868 passengers, the largest number to arrive aboard an American ship since the war began, docked today after an uneventful voyage from Southampton and Le Verdon, France.

Passengers included Lord Beaverbrook, British publisher; Arturo Toscanini, the orchestra conductor, and another installment of the children of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy—Patricia, 15, Jean, 11, and Teddy, seven, en route to their home in Bronxville and school.

Schwab's Fortune Goes to Relatives

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—Relatives inherit the bulk of the estate of Charles M. Schwab, steel executive, under the terms of a will filed for probate today. The size of the estate was not given.

The principal beneficiaries are a brother, Edward H. Schwab, a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Barry, and the children of the late Joseph E. Schwab, brother of Charles.

TURN GUNS ON UTILITY BOARD

The storm of protest over rate increases granted the Boston Consolidated Gas Company today brought demands for drastic reorganization of the State Department of Public Utilities.

Three such demands were contained in bills filed with the Legislature.

The first of the three measures, all of which were filed by Rep. Morris Kritzman of Boston, provides for popular election of the commissioners for five-year terms.

Another seeks appointment of the commissioners to two-year terms, two by the president of the Senate, two by the Speaker of the House, and one, a representative of organized labor to be appointed by the Governor.

Third bill called for appointment for two years of a Republican and a Democrat by the Governor, who also would appoint two representatives of organized labor. The fifth member would be appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Corp. Counsel Henry Parkman, Jr., announced he was studying the decision with a view of making a Supreme Court appeal from the ruling of the public utilities commission which permitted increases affecting 11 communities and 90 per cent of the gas company's customers.

The increases range from 40 cents on 100 cubic feet to 10 cents on 3000 feet. The decrease is on bills over 34 or 4500 cubic feet.

Convicts Seize Then Free Two Co-Ed Couples

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 30 (AP)—A life term murderer and two robber-convicts abducted four high school students, children of prominent Huntsville families, last night, forced them to drive to Beaumont and released them unharmed, early today.

The convicts, working as carpenters on a rodeo stadium east of the Texas prison walls here, dug a hole under the grandstand.

Near the home of Willie Smith, cattle dealer, they found two boys and two girls seated in a car.

The four students were Jack Feider, quarterback on the football team; Cleveland Bishop, also a football player; Mary Ethyln Ball, and Willene Smith, the cattle dealer's daughter.

The convicts freed them in Beaumont after taking both boys' shirts and about $1.50 in cash.

The escaped convicts were Clifton Davidson, 32, serving 35 years for robbery; S. J. Whatley, Jr., 24, six years for burglary; and Lloyd Rayburn, 31, serving life for murder.

2 DIE IN ONTARIO STORM

TORONTO, Sept. 30 (Canadian Press)—Electrical storms caused two deaths and severe property damage in widely separated parts of Ontario Province.

Wife of Bergdoll His 'Jailer' 3 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll was a prisoner in his own home for more than three years and his wife was his "jailer," she disclosed today.

Mrs. Berta Bergdoll told for the first time how her husband, now being tried by court-martial in New York as a World War draft dodger, lived behind bolted doors and drawn blinds while the army sought him high and low. He was at his home all the time—in the big Bergdoll mansion here.

"I wouldn't let him go out," Mrs. Bergdoll recalled. "While he stayed inside I could keep him safe."

"It wasn't at all bad—quite the contrary," she declared.

"We were happy, all together. I wish, sometimes, that it had never ended."

6 Harvard Profs Trapped by War

The European war has taken its toll in the teaching ranks at Harvard, it was announced today.

Among those not returning this year is Prof. Andre Morize, head of the French department, who went to his native land for the summer vacation.

During the World War, Prof. Morize was sent here from France to train Harvard reservists and became so well liked that after hostilities he was given a teaching post. It is believed he will rejoin the French army.

Among others unable to reach the United States from European ports are Profs. Derwent Whittlesey, Harold L. Kemp and Edward Ackerman of the geological department, Prof. Frank W. Hershey of the English department and Prof. Charles D. Lomis of the German department.

Alfred M. Gould, 90, Dies in Malden

Alfred M. Gould, 90, a pioneer in the manufacture of herb products and witch hazel, died today at his home, 33 Clifton st., Malden.

Born in Malden, he had been since his youth associated with the S. W. Gould & Bros. Co. The company was founded by his grandfather, who learned blending of herbs from the Indians. He leaves one son, Watson B. Gould, also of Malden.

N. H. Turkey Day Set for Nov. 30

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 30—New Hampshire was added today to the list of "stand-patters" in the Thanksgiving Day dispute. Gov. Francis P. Murphy announced he would officially set apart Nov. 30, rather than the earlier date advocated by President Roosevelt.

His reasons would be embodied in a proclamation to be issued within a few days, Gov. Murphy said.

Taxicab Fleet To Be Cut 350

A drastic reduction in the number of taxicabs operating in Boston appeared a foregone conclusion today with assurances from Police Commissioner Timilty that the new plan will go into effect within a month.

From 1250, the existing number, the cab fleet will be slashed to 900 as soon as Commissioner Timilty returns from the national convention of police chiefs to be held in California next week. Combines operating less than 5 cabs will not be affected.

That the reduction, favored in a resolution adopted by the Massachusetts Federation of Labor as a step to improve working conditions of drivers had already been approved by police was made known to 200 taxicab owners in a conference at police headquarters.

U. S. Seeks CCC Youths For Army

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—War Department officials indicated today the Army was looking to the CCC for some of the nearly 50,000 recruits sought in the next two months.

Only those who are ineligible for re-enrollment in the CCC will be solicited, however.

Officials said that, if a youth with Army qualifications had reached the end of his CCC service, there was no reason why he should not be offered Army service, regardless of the civilian status of the CCC.

MRS. SMITH HEADS FEDERATED CLUBS

MANCHESTER, Vt., Sept. 30—Mrs Harry W. Smith of Durham, N. H., was elected president of the New England Conference of State Federations of Women's Clubs here at the closing session of the three-day 30th annual convention of the organization held here at Equinox Hotel.

Mrs. Smith succeeds Mrs. Albert E. Chittenden, Auburn, Me., who has headed the conference for two years.

Neutral Eire's Sons Go To War

Floyd Gibbons as Pal Knew Him

Who Will Win World Series?

Boston 'a Real Hot Town'!

IRELAND preserves her neutrality, but Irishmen are going to war! The story behind this paradoxical situation is one of tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser's most interesting features.

Elsa Maxwell

Floyd Gibbons

The author is Sean O'Rourke, brilliant student of developments in the Emerald Isle.

For the first time in any American newspaper, he reveals why Eire's sons are marching to seaports, sailing for England and enlisting by the thousands to fight Germany.

FLOYD GIBBONS' friends, who mourn his sudden death, will not fail to read the Advertiser's biographical story of this farfamed headline hunter and war correspondent.

Bert Ford, a Bostonian who served with Gibbons 20 years ago in the coverage of World War battles and bombardments, is the writer.

ANOTHER WAR MAP, graphically illustrated in colors, appears in the Advertiser.

Here, at a glance, the reader may acquaint himself with the week's developments on all war fronts.

Accompanying the map is the fourth weekly war news almanac, a day by day recording of the conflict's progress for future reference.

THE SPORTS SEASON in full swing, the Advertiser covers all the schoolboy and college games and presents excellent pictures of the important plays.

Joe Cashman, stellar baseball writer, contributes an informative article and offers a probable answer to the much-asked question, "Who will win the World Series?"

Austen Lake pens an intimate and colorful story about the stars of the Series, introducing each man as he knows him.

ELSA MAXWELL, the illustrious party giver of New York's topflight society, talks to the Advertiser and voices the opinion that Boston is a red hot town and that our Puritan ancestors would be shocked at the very gay night life of the present time.

Naturally, Miss Maxwell's comments inspire retaliation. Debutantes and their mothers speak out and strive to end all doubts about conformity to the blue-stocking traditions.

The dispute makes reading any New Englander will enjoy.

WHAT IS AMERICA DOING to avoid a repetition of the accidents that sent the ill-fated submarines Squalus, S-4 and S-5 to the bottom of the Atlantic?

Seeking the answer to that query, the American Weekly Magazine, which is distributed with the Advertiser, interviewed leading maritime and scientific authorities and learned interesting facts.

With undersea craft playing an outstanding role in the current war, it is a story all readers will find satisfying and instructive.

"THE MUMMY'S FOOT," Fred MacIsaac's thrill-packed new novel describing the astonishing adventures of a jilted young man who found love, fame and fortune under the weird spell of an ancient talisman, continues in the American Weekly.

Another enjoyable feature lists some of the odd, original and weird plants by unhappy husbands and wives who seek divorces.

A third article, by Dr. Donald A. Laird, eminent psychologist, presents little-known and startling facts about blood and punctures, various misconceptions about human blood which, he says, does not boil with anger or freeze with terror, as novelists have long maintained.

The widely-read Housewife's Food Almanack tells how a mother of 30 years ago prepared the family's food. In addition there is a gastronomical calendar with amusing comments on aspects, holidays and notable food dates for the month of October.

On this page will also be found some unusual facts about foods and six prize winning recipes that were sent in by readers for Devilled Crabs, Mushroom Omelet, Beef Stew and Dumplings, Eastern Shore Turkey Fritters, Veal Brisket and Boiled Cider Pie.

A MOST INTERESTING feature discloses how a landslide on the Italian coast has revealed a cavern with a 70,000-year-old skull which throws new and astonishing light upon the ancient sorceress, Circe, who is said to have turned men into swine.

ALL THE FAMILY will enjoy the Advertiser's ENLARGED comic section with more funnies, more pages and the PHANTOM in colors.

THE VERY LATEST NEWS from the battle scenes and the European capitals will appear on Page One and other Sunday Advertiser pages.

This newspaper, which has led all Sunday publications in quick, accurate and complete coverage of the conflict abroad, will report all the important happenings which are expected tonight and early tomorrow.

A novel "war" feature will be a whole page reprinting news dispatches and stories EXACTLY as they appear in London's principal journals.

NOTED ARCHITECT DIES

Miss Cornell Returns as Comedienne

Katharine Cornell, long absent from Boston, returns to the Wilbur Theater on Monday night for a two-week engagement in S. N. Behrman's "No Time for Comedy," her newest success.

Unlike her previous enterprises, this one presents the popular star as a comedienne, a field that until now she has never essayed. Exceptionally successful has been Miss Cornell in her pioneering in this instance, her play having just completed a 24-week run in New York to popularity that was so pronounced even at the end of the stay that the Broadway engagement could have easily continued on indefinitely.

Francis Lederer, popular stage and screen star, has the leading role opposite Miss Cornell in "No Time For Comedy," and their supporting company includes Margalo Gillmore, John Williams, Tom Helmore, Gee Gee James and Peter Robinson. Guthrie McClintic has staged the piece and Jo Mielziner has designed its two attractive stage settings.

Producers of the play are Miss Cornell in association with The Playwrights' Company, that renowned group of first line dramatist-managers that comprise Robert E. Sherwood, Maxwell Anderson, Elmer Rice and the S. N. Behrman in whose comedy Miss Cornell is currently appearing.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30—If Virginia Dale becomes another Mary Martin she can thank Mary for her big chance in "Buck Benny Rides Again."

Here is Virginia's story: She had been under contract to almost every studio in town without getting a break. Three months ago Para gave her a stock job, but she didn't cut much ice there until Mark Sandrich noticed that she looked the part of the gal they wanted for the Benny picture. However, he was worried that she hadn't a sufficiently trained voice to carry the musical numbers.

Then somebody told Mary Martin about the kid who was about to lose out on her big chance—and Mary promptly took her under her wing. She coached her in her own song arrangements and when Virginia took the test she knocked them cold and is now Benny's leading lady.

• • •

Bob Taylor is on an official vacation from M-G-M but it's no secret to his friends that Bob is really on a modified sit down strike. I wouldn't for the world take sides in these studio battles but it does seem as if Bob is rushed into too many pictures just to meet release dates.

Now I hear he has put his foot down and is absolutely refusing to play in any more pictures until the right role comes along.

New Kenmore's Policy Changed

The New Kenmore Theater's change of policy will go into effect tomorrow, with "Daughters Courageous," starring the Lane sisters and John Garfield, and "Clouds Over Europe," with Laurence Olivier, as the co-starring picture. The new policy will mean a new screen program every Sunday, Wednesday and Friday.

Symphony's First Program

Serge Koussevitzky announces the program with which he will open his sixteenth anniversary season as conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Symphony Hall.

This, the 59th season, will open on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, October 13 and 14, and continue until May 4, with 24 pairs of Friday and Saturday concerts, and 6 pairs of Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon concerts in Symphony Hall.

The opening programme will consist of Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony No. 3 in E flat; Vincent d'Indy's symphonic Variations, "Istar"; and Debussy's "La Mer."

Soloists shortly to be heard in the Friday and Saturday series will be Siguard Rascher, the remarkable saxophone virtuoso, and Josef Hofmann, the pianist who has not played at these concerts for a number of years. Further solists are Walter Gieseking, Rudolf Serkin, Jan Smeterlin, Jascha Heiftez, and Joseph Szigeti. There will also be vocal soloists, notably in the Tchaikovsky Festival which will end the season.

'Bachelor Mother' For Boston's Screen

ROPE TWIRLER AWARDED HONORS ON RKO BOSTON STAGE

MEET "The Man Who Came to Dinner," Yale's and Hollywood's bearded "Monty" Woolley. This Hart-Kaufman hit goes into its second week at the Plymouth Monday night.

'The Old Maid' on Twin Bills

Bette Davis, in what many believe to be her finest role, "The Old Maid," is the top feature on the Scollay and Modern screens this week.

It is the poignant story of the bitter if unspoken feud between two Victorian cousins over the affections of the illegitimate daughter of one. The child was Charlotte's by the man for whom Delia tired of waiting. Although he dies, he lives on for the two women in the image of his daughter.

Miriam Hopkins plays the Delia to Miss Davis' Charlotte. Jane Bryan, as the daughter, proves herself one of the screen's finest

Three Chords Also Fare Well on Vaudeville Bill

Don Cummings, tuxedoed rope-twirler, is the best on the new bill at the RKO Boston.

Doubling as his own interlocutor, Cummings got off some amusing lines and won himself the major applause for the afternoon at yesterday's opening show.

A collegiate looking trio in grey flannels and white sweaters, the Three Chords proved versatile in their "Say It With Music" skit. They "made like" Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians' theme-song, Clyde McCoy and his Sugar Blues Orchestra, the Cocoanut Grove Hawaiian, and Artie Shaw.

Radio's Josephine Huston, platinum-topped and with a metallic edge to her voice that we could do without, sang "an old tune with a new rhythm, "The Bells of St. Mary's." Other numbers were "Begin the Beguine" and "Over the Rainbow."

The Six Grays, composed of five girls and a personable young man, dance alternately in threes and in unison to the music of "This Must Be Love," "The Dipsy Doodle," etc. Artie Lewis, who'd like nothing better than to be Hitler's cook, and his partner, Peggy Ames, are ineptly billed as comedians. They just think so.

Topping the screen show is "Conspiracy," co-starring Allan Lane and Linda Hayes in an RKO Radio spy drama, and "Blondie Takes a Vacation," another episode in the screen version of the popular Boston American cartoon strip. Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and little Larry Sims portray Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dumpling.

Crosby Film Hit On Bowdoin Bill

Starting today on Bowdoin Square screen is "The Star Maker," the crooning Bing Crosby's best picture. Appearing with him are Louise Campbell and Ned Sparks. The second feature, "Island of Lost men," co-stars Anna May Wong and J. Carrol Nash.

Free Press Feature

"How America Won a Free Press" is an interesting short on South Station Theater screen this week. On the same program are two cartoons, a "Popular Science" short, "A Desert Adventure," latest newsreel and other subjects.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

BEFORE the new social register comes off the presses in November so many girls are changing their names that the make-up men will have a last minute rush to bring the little black book's listings up to date . . .

We've just heard of two more important weddings added to October's already imposing schedule . . . and oddly enough, both brides-to-be made their debut on the same evening, the night after Thanksgiving in 1936 . . . One is Sally Paine, of Weston, who will become the bride of Waldo Emerson Forbes on Oct. 14, and the other is Renee Van Nydeck Schanck of Park avenue, N. Y., who will be married to Phoenix Ingraham, also of Gotham, on Oct. 20 in the Chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church . . .

Sally Paine will be married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant Paine . . . Her sister, Charlotte, as maid of honor, heads the attractive bevy of bridesmaids who will take part in the nuptials . . . They include Charlotte Hutchins, Amelia Forbes, Peggy Rice, and Virginia Morss of Boston; Alice Osborn of Garrison, N. Y.; Lucy Hulburd of Exeter, N. H., and Henrietta Nash of Warrenton, Va. . . .

Mr. Forbes and his bride will live in Sheridan, Wyoming, where he is in business . . . He is the son of Mrs. Waldo Forbes of Milton and a Harvard '34 graduate . . .

* * *

RENEE SCHANCK, who for two years has been insisting that she and Phoenix were "just friends," (in spite of persistent rumors of their engagement) became officially engaged a few weeks ago . . . She is the daughter of the George Schancks of Park avenue, who for many years came to Magnolia for the summer . . .

Her bridesmaids will include Frances Clucas of Stockbridge, Barbara Bullitt of Boston and Louisville, Ky., and Coralie Barry of New York . . .

Tobey-Houser Ceremony Today

MARTHA HOUSER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Houser of Peaches Point, Marblehead, becomes the bride of Walter P. Tobey of Boston at a small home wedding this afternoon . . . Due to the simplicity of the wedding she has dispensed with the usual train and veil, and is wearing a simple white satin gown with a fillet of braided satin . . . she is carrying bouvardia . . .

Mrs. Dwight Shepler is the only attendant . . . The bride is a graduate of Smith College and a member of the Junior League . . .

North Shore Girl Weds Today

LIBERTY DICK, who becomes Mrs. Henry Mosle Winter in St. John's Church, Beverly Farms, this afternoon, will look like a miniature blonde doll in her wedding gown of pink brocade, made with a fitted basque waist and puff sleeves . . . Her veil is of matching pink tulle and she is carrying an ivory prayer book . . . The petite and uniquely named bride is the daughter of the Evans Dicks of Pinckney st. . . .

Marjorie Prince, her maid of honor, is wearing violet velvet with a velvet muff adorned with pansies and a wreath of pansies in her hair . . . Joan Dick and Mrs. Cardiner Pier, sisters of the bride, are wearing similar outfits of violet taffeta with pansies for bridesmaid roles . . . Another sister, Anne, is unable to leave her studies in the South to come home for the wedding . . .

David Rockefeller of New York is an usher together with Gardiner Pier and Charles E. Rockwell, and John K. Winter is his brother's best man . . . On Oct. 11, the couple will sail for Mexico City to spend the winter . . .

Topsfield Church Scene of Wedding

CORNELIA PENTECOST'S wedding is also taking place on the North Shore this afternoon . . . At four o'clock she becomes the bride of Browning Endicott Marean, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Marean of New York . . . Following the ceremony in the Topsfield Congregational Church, the reception is being held at Barrack Tor, home of the bride's father, Captain Ernest Pentecost . . .

Gray satin bustle gowns, with headdresses and bouquets of vivid autumn flowers, fashion the costumes of the bridesmaids, Kitty Pentecost, Helen Marean and Mrs. Jackson Turner . . . The bride's gown is ivory satin with below the elbow sleeves, a gathered skirt and long train . . .

RENEE SCHANCK and her fiance, Phoenix Ingraham, discuss plans for their wedding on Oct. 20, as they "sit one out" at a Gotham night club. Miss Schanck made her debut in Beantown where she has many friends among the younger set.

Dr. Eddy's Question Box

Tested and Approved by the Good Housekeeping Bureau (Conducted by Good Housekeeping Magazine)

ARE RAW EGGS DIGESTIBLE? | WHAT ARE PROTEIN NEEDS OF IDEAL DIET?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY
Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

Can you give me any information as to the digestibility of raw egg white? E. P.

Nutrition authorities at present agree that white of egg slightly cooked is more readily acted upon by the digestive juices than the raw product. Apparently the digestive juices can penetrate the cooked product more quickly and easily than they can the viscid raw egg white.

Your Protein Needs

Can you advise me as to the protein needs of the ideal diet? J. H. C.

It is now established that if 10 to 15 per cent of your total calorie need is supplied by protein of good quality, and if the rest of your energy need is met by a combination of carbohydrate and fat, you will have sufficient protein for all your body requirements.

To apply this practically, let us assume that your calorie requirement is 2500. Taking the larger figure, 15 per cent, of this, you would need 375 calories from protein. A pure protein supplies 4 calories per gram. Dividing 375 by 4 would mean that you must eat each day 94 grams, or about 3.3 ozs. of pure protein. To translate this into terms of protein foods you will now need to know the per cent of protein in such foods. If you are getting protein from meat, such as beef, which contains 22 per cent protein, you will get the amount of meat necessary by dividing the 3.3 by 22 and multiplying by 100; in other words, 15 ounces of beefsteak would give you your full requirement for the day.

When we speak of protein of good quality, we have in mind the proteins of milk, meat, fish, and egg. Vegetable proteins can be used, but some of them need supplementing with a little of the milk or meat or fish protein in order to provide satisfactory quality.

VITAMIN A is the anti-xerophthalmic vitamin, because its omission from the diet results in an eye disease called xerophthalmia. It is a component of butter fat and egg yolk. It is also present in the green leaves of plants, in certain roots, especially those with yellow color (carrots, sweet potatoes, etc.), and to a more abundant degree in fish oils, such as cod liver oil.

Hydroquinon Protects the Vitamin

I am using a halver-oil capsule which contains .09% hydroquinon. Is this harmful in any way? Mrs. W. H.

Vitamin A in fish oils undergoes a slow destruction by oxidation. Hydroquinon is what is called an anti-oxident; it is put into the oil to prevent destruction of vitamin A. There will be no harmful result from taking the small amount you specify.

Try Chocolate Night-Cap

By MARTHA LEE

When Cervantes said so long ago, "Sleep is the current coin that purchases all the pleasures of the world cheaply," he expressed modern belief, as well. But who hasn't experienced the need to do something about grasping this "current coin of sleep?" Too many, a pleasant "night-cap" is sufficient answer to the occasional but universal need.

Drinking a pleasant hot beverage before retiring is an ideal way to quiet tired nerves and induce sleep. Easily made milk drinks, chocolate, cocoa, and malted milk are popular and nutritious.

HOT CHOCOLATE

1½ to 2 ounces chocolate
3 tbsp. sugar
Pinch salt
¼ cup boiling water
1 quart milk
½ tsp. vanilla

Melt chocolate over hot water, add sugar and salt. Then add the boiling water slowly, stirring constantly to keep the mixture perfectly smooth. Add milk, scalded, and vanilla. Before serving beat with a rotary egg beater until foamy. Makes about 1 quart.

COCOA

2 to 4 tbsp. cocoa
1 to 2 tbsp. sugar
Pinch salt
½ cup water
1 qt. milk

Mix cocoa, sugar and salt and combine with cold water, to make a smooth paste. Boil for three minutes. Add milk which has been scalded and blend thoroughly. Beating with a rotary egg beater will prevent the forming of scum. Makes about 1 quart.

CHOCOLATE MALTED MILK

2 tsp. malted milk
Few grains salt
2 tbsp. stock cocoa syrup
Scalded milk or boiling water

Blend malted milk, salt, and cocoa syrup in a cup. Add hot milk or water and stir until well blended. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

STOCK COCOA SYRUP

¼ lb. cocoa
1 lb. sugar
½ tsp. salt
1 pint water (boiling)

Mix the cocoa, sugar, and salt together, add the boiling water slowly, stirring while adding. Place the mixture in the upper part of a double boiler and cook for half an hour over boiling water, stirring occasionally. When cold, bottle and store in a cool place.

When using this syrup put three or four teaspoons of it in each cup and fill with scalded milk.

One of the most persuasive among night-cups which soothe and relax is the modern form of liquefied fruit, the whole-fruit nectars. Chief among their attributes for inducing digestive processes, so that the brain may be lured to rest, is the happy blend of both pulp and juice of consummately ripened, deciduous fruits; apricots, plums, peaches and nectarines in harmonious combination, pears, and peaches.

NECTARINE NIGHT-CAP

To prepare one of these wholesome beverages for bedtime consumption, warm quickly to drinking temperature or heat in the top of a double boiler. Select your favorite fruit and include a sweetening of honey and a dash of lemon juice, if you like, or merely add a dash of cinnamon extract to the heating liquid.

Even the chilled whole-fruit nectar has advantages as a night-cap.

U. S. Like Flea In Dog Fight

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

America is like a flea in a dog fight. It's neutral but it's right in the middle of things.

And if it's a smart flea it won't be on the loser at the finish. War is something like getting the roar of Niagara with every glass of water. You soon get used to the noise.

P. S. We've got a baseball series on our hands if we can get our hands on some tickets.

Smart Set Fashions

Pliant Mountings for Jewels

IT'S a new-old style that's reappearing in jewels . . . stones "pegged" in metal, which means they're mounted on tiny cones. It comes to us from the time of Queen Alexandra, and a modern designer, Edwin H. Tompkins, has brought the technique up to a high point. Jewels are massed on serpentine links, like this maharanee's ransom in diamonds, rubies and platinum. This treatment gives the "soft" look so important in accessories. The serpentine link back of the necklace is measured to fit the base of the throat and fit exactly in the hollow of the collar bone. And the handcuff bracelet also hugs the wrist closely.—ANNICE BRINK.

Good Manners

Endearing Quality Is Tact

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Tact is a quality that should always be present in conversation. Tact is another word for kindness plus a well-filled imagination. It is consideration for other people.

Like any other social quality, tact can be cultivated, if we have the wish and will to cultivate it.

If you have tact, you will sense what subjects can be started in a certain group. We will know how to control and guide these subjects. You will also know when the moment has come to change the subject.

Perhaps tact may not be among the most "brilliant" of the conversational qualities, but it is certainly one of the most endearing ones. In our daily contacts, situations are constantly arising which we need quickly to grasp and to smooth down with a kindly touch.

When these moments come to YOU, use tact, and you won't muff the ball!

Thank-You Notes To Shower Donors

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—After attending a shower I have always thought how much nicer it would be if the person wrote a thank-you letter to each girl, even after thanking the person personally for her gift.

Now I have just had a stork shower given to me, and if you concur with my idea, will you please give me a few ideas as to the remarks to make after the actual words of thanks?

2—Would it be proper for me to use correspondence cards for my thank-you notes, or would this white, double-sheeted paper, with my initial, be better?

READER.

1—Indeed I do agree with your idea of writing notes of thanks to these kind givers-of-gifts at your stork shower . . . as I have said many times, and most enthusiastically, in my column.

In your notes, chat informally about the gift, its beauty, its usefulness, and thank for your friend's thoughtfulness and generosity. And don't forget to mention the gift definitely . . . not just refer to it vaguely as "your gift."

2—I am not enthusiastic about using correspondence cards for these notes. The space on these cards appears cramped . . . and this gives the impression that the number of words you use is limited by the abbreviated size of the card.

The letter-paper on which you wrote to me would be in good taste for these notes of thanks.

You Can Be Beautiful

Your Perfect Cleansing Cream

By ARLINE GOULD

THERE'S a surprising lack of knowledge . . . we've found . . . on just what kind of cleansing cream one should use. What with the necessity, government regulations and all that, for declaring facts on labels, it gets to be an easier task. But to simplify it absolutely, one very famous cosmetic house has a trio of cleansing creams, and it would be almost impossible to go wrong in choosing one for you!

And so far ahead of things were they, that it's been their custom all along to label their finely, delicately and carefully made creams this way. If you've never used them, here is your chance. Because the big jar (you'll get months of use out of it) weighing half a pound is going on half-price sale for a short time, the $2 jar will be $1.

We're particularly partial to the rich, smooth dry-skin cleanser. It is a lush old ivory, exquisitely fragrant, and it actually is soothing to a dry skin. You immediately feel its softening effect. You'll know why it is famous for helping guard your face from lines when you try it.

For the medium-dry skin which finds weather elements and make up unfriendly, but which doesn't lack its own oils to too great an extent, there is a salon cold cream cleanser. It freshens, and has just enough rich oil in it.

As for the oily skin, you couldn't do better than use famous liquefying cream, so light, thin and fine that it is equal to the task of removing all surface grime and oils.

If you'd like to learn about this short-time half-price special on these famous three-type cleansing creams, phone Arline Gould LIBerty 4000, week-days until five thirty, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Always Tired? Watch Nerves

Exhausted and the morning scarcely begun! How many high-strung, nervous women find themselves without energy for the day's work and play.

Yet after a night's rest the nervous system should be charged full of energy. The neurotic who understands her nerves is aglow with the zest, the charming vitality which is the special gift of her type.

What exhausts the less happily adjusted woman? According to nerve specialists, she fritters away her rich store of nervous energies in emotional extravagance, resentment and worry—so much so that ordinary rest can't refresh her.

Vitality is too precious to be wasted. Know how to use it to get joy out of life.

In our 40-page booklet, How to Avoid and Overcome Nervous Troubles, a famous psychologist tells how to conserve nerve energies, direct them into joyous channels. Explains causes of "nerves," irritability, insomnia—other nerve symptoms.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, How to Avoid and Overcome Nervous Troubles, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your Name, Address, and the Name of booklet.

KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR
—Be Neutral—

CUPID is a busy little fellow in the Boston area. Applications for marriage licenses during the past month poured into City Hall in near record-breaking volumes.

During the corresponding period a year ago, 679 couples filed wedding intentions. This year the total soared to 804.

Many attribute the rise to the war abroad, and cynically, voice the opinion that some men, aware of military service's habit of drafting bachelors before husbands, are hastening their trips to the altar.

We cannot share this morose view. We prefer the happier and undoubtedly truer explanation that associates the boom in romance with economic recovery.

It is reasonable to believe that scores of young men who are now marrying and establishing homes of their own, wanted to do so three and four years ago. Uncertainty of employment made them hesitate.

Today, work becoming more and more abundant, they no longer see reason for delay.

"BEWARE RATS," says Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the United States Public Health Service. "Experiments indicate these rodents contact and spread poliomyelitis, commonly called infantile paralysis."

This is hardly slander; the rats' reputation is too black to be further damaged.

For centuries, science has known that these scavengers carried the germs of bubonic plague and trichinosis. Entering ships in one port and leaving them in another, they have infected whole populations.

Millions of human deaths, more than 100,000 in a single year in London, have been ascribed to this deadly transportation.

It would be impossible to estimate the suffering and loss caused by the destructive animals since they emigrated from China in the thirteenth century and overran Europe.

But it is not impossible to reduce their numbers by the abolition of slum areas, vigilance at waterfronts, proper attention to sewers and constant supervision at municipal dumps.

That, undoubtedly, is the purpose of Dr. Parran's timely warning.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, proclaimed by Governor Saltonstall for observance throughout Massachusetts during the seven days beginning October 8, concerns all residents, property owners particularly.

Sixty-six persons died in fires last year in this State. Damage totalled $11,300,000, a sum that exceeded the loss of the previous year by the imposing sum of $1,402,897.

More than half the fires were in private dwellings, with careless smoking listed as the principal cause.

We cannot bring back the dead. We cannot erase the suffering and grief that accompanied this widespread destruction.

But we can and should make CAUTION a constant and unceasing practice.

"AIR RAIDS INSPIRE new fashions for women," Paris style authorities inform us.

Because rapid dressing is most desirable when bombs are dropping, clothes designers are advocating tight-ankled ski trousers, wind-breaker jackets and eccentric hats as the last word in chic coverage.

Since brilliant reds, greens and yellows are apt to be conspicuous in "blackout" periods, midnight blues and dark purples are favored colors.

Of course, this information is not surprising. Necessity has always been the mother of invention in the fashion world. The voluminous garments of the Middle Ages were not devised so much for beauty as for warmth and comfort in the unheated dwellings of the time.

A WAR CREATION
Boston Hats Are Saner

The wasp-waisted coats men wore at the close of the World War would be regarded as ridiculous today. But men who had been in the service were accustomed to form-fitting uniforms, and when they returned to civilian life they felt more "at home" in suits that inclined towards the military in appearance.

None the less, there is no reason why American women should obey the doleful decrees of Paris and wear drab clothing. There are no bombs falling here, and certainly no "black-outs." All the colors of the rainbow can be paraded with perfect safety.

Thus, our Boston fashion leadership, which has won rapid recognition in recent years, will as a result of the peace that prevails on this side of the Atlantic be even more firmly established.

CONSCRIPTED BRITISH BOYS HEAD FOR FRANCE
Will They Find British-Made Guns in Germans' Hands?

SOMETIMES, to read the news now, one questions whether, even after one hundred centuries, mankind has learned much of true value. He hasn't even solved the problem of material welfare—much less the riddle of happiness.

We used to conclude from reading our history books that war was the great evil of the extreme past, of undeveloped humanity, before civilization really got going. In school and college our heads were full of the wars of Alexander and Caesar, of the conquests of Rome and of the bloody deeds of the Dark Ages.

Well, Harvard University has made quite a study of the relation of wars to modern civilization, and the professors tell us that war was really an insignificant part of man's activities up to the seventeenth century, and that ever since it has steadily increased and grown more barbarous. In the first part of this century, the tide of war rises to the high water mark of the ages we're in right now.

HARVARD SAVANTS suggested grimly that war does not tend to disappear with material progress. They say that any hope war will disappear in the near future is based on nothing more substantial than a belief in miracles.

They find, from the study of history, that wars increase in number and savagery as nations expand and grow rich, and point to the worst explosion since the dawn of history taking place in our own time.

Time has brought us marching into the world almost beyond the dreams of yesterday, yet into an astounding age, into a world where bewildered millions can find no peace and no prospect of felicity. Throughout the world there is discontent everywhere.

In the hearts of these millions there is a new terror, another nightmare. Millions of young people, eager, delightful, so warm and vital — the real, unspoiled fruits of civilization—stand with startled eyes as death rains again from the sky.

WITH THE SECOND World War barely begun come reports that German soldiers are being shot down by guns made in Germany, and British and French soldiers killed and mangled by guns made by the great British munitions firm of Vickers-Armstrong and the colossal French armament firm of Schneider-Creusot.

It was charged that in the First World War, English and French industries maintained in Germany a steady stream of glycerine for explosives, and a huge flow of nickel, oil, copper and rubber, and that Germany returned iron and steel and magnetos for gas engines.

When the Kaiser's armies drove through Belgium and eastward into Russia, German soldiers were slain by German guns in the hands of the Belgians and the Russians. In the Dardanelles, British ships were blown up by British-made mines and shattered by British-made cannons. Bulgarian troops turned upon French soldiers the famous French Seventy-Fives, manufactured in the plants of Schneider-Creusot. In every naval engagement of the World War the German fleet encountered enemy ships protected by armor plate made in German plants or protected by German patents.

On a village green in rural England stands a war memorial. It is a cannon captured by a local battalion from the Germans. On one side of the cannon are the names of the soldiers who were killed in that advance. On the other side is the manufacturer's name, Vickers, Limited

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- MY DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—We drove over from Wilmington, Del., to Reading, Pa., and because it was very foggy the drive took us longer than we had expected. It is pretty country and I love the old stone farmhouses, whitewashed and looking so spic and span.

It was too dark really to see Reading when we arrived, but we made a stop at a hospital run by a group of Catholic Sisters, to see a World War veteran who seems to have made his long illness not only bearable to himself, but of value to many other people.

All he can do is to use his eyes and his voice, but he sells postcards at Christmas and makes money in various other ways to build up a fund from which he helps fellow-sufferers.

WHEN I went in, three young men were calling on him and he told me they were members of a boys' club in which he was interested. They probably contribute much to the pleasure of his existence, but I couldn't help thinking that this man was furnishing all of us with a valuable lesson in the way to take whatever happens to us in this world and turn it to some advantage.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Visits Disabled War Veteran

The fog, and this visit, made us rather late in reaching the hotel and the press conference was somewhat hurried, as well as our dinner and our dressing.

We were ready, however, in time for the lecture, and I think the time has come for me gratefully to acknowledge the fact that people in this country are most considerate of their speakers.

Years ago, it seems to me, there was considerably more moving about in halls during speeches, which made it difficult for the speaker. Probably the installation of the kind of public address system which greets one on practically every platform, makes it possible for the whole audience to hear any speaker.

Even the photographers are kind and when I suggest that flashing bulbs after the first few minutes are a little disconcerting to the audience, they are most considerate.

AFTER the lecture, there was only one question sent up from the audience, so we got off early enough to reach Harrisburg by midnight and get a fairly good night's sleep on the way to New York City.

Arrived this morning, several people greeted me at our apartment and the telephone has been ringing more or less steadily.

Now I am off to see an art exhibit, meet my aunt, Mrs. David Gray, and do a number of other things on the spur of the moment, which I will tell you about Monday.

N. Y. OFFICIALS HIT DEWEY PUBLICITY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—DIST. ATTY. DEWEY: The other District Attorneys here are very angry at you—all because Gilbert's Code of Criminal Procedure, the accepted semi-official guide-book in criminal law, for the first time in its many years of publication carries what amounts to an advertisement . . . In the back of the book is a section called "Dewey's Forms," containing the indictment, subpoena and other forms your office employs . . . They insist they've been using those same forms since long before you became a prosecutor.

• • •

JASCHA HEIFETZ: Your friend, Mischa Elman, as well as H. V. Kaltenborn and Joe Iturbi, will become a night-club entertainer. They've been signed to appear at the Bamboo Room in the Hollywood Beach Hotel, Florida, this winter . . JACQUELINE COCHRAN: Now that the Federal Government is training co-eds for civil aviation, aren't you going to receive a commission in the Flying Corps? . . . BURGESS MEREDITH: Your former wife, Margaret Perry, and her mother, Antoinette Perry, the Theater Guild director, for an hour yesterday were stowaways on a troop ship bound for Panama. They didn't heed the "All ashore" warning. A tug was chartered to take them off the troop ship at Sandy Hook.

JACQUELINE COCHRAN

• • •

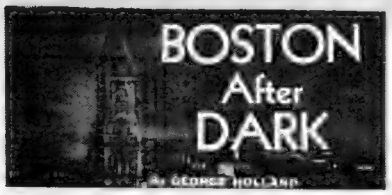
GEORGE M. COHAN: Your daughter, Mary will appear at the Sun Beau Room at the Pegasus Polo Club in Rockleigh, N. J. . . . GRANVILLE HICKS: Tuesday's front pages picked up the dispatch from Harvard that you were quitting your Communist activities. That story appeared in this space on Sept. 22.

• • •

MARTIN DIES: A newspaper sent cameramen to every meeting of the German-American Bund and secured photos of all the people who came to make un-American speeches. The publicity-loving Fritz Kuhn assisted the cameraman in getting these photos and kept complaining because, while the meetings were duly reported, these photos never were published . . . "The negatives turned out poorly," he was told each time . . . The negatives turned out to be excellent ones. All the photos—more than 150—were purchased at $3.50 per picture by the Department of Justice!

• • •

BOB RIPLEY: Dr. Mayfield, who swallows the flame from a plumber's blow-torch at your Odditorium, drinks coffee every night at the 7th Avenue "Shanty" and blows on every spoonful—to cool it off . . . VINCENT SHEEAN: Prentice-Hall will publish the book written by the Overseas Club's members—"The Inside Story."



EXCLUSIVE: The figurative darkie in the Pittsburgh baseball woodpile—the negotiator for the Pirates who concluded the deal for Frankie Frisch to manage that ballclub—was found by this department, right here in Boston, today . . . He is Joe Schulz, chief of the Pirates' farm system, and the Pirates' cabinet member who will employ Somerville Pie next year as an assistant . . . It was Joseph who talked business with Frisch . . . He had plenipotentiary power so that President Benswanger of the Pittsburghs could maintain a technical position of honesty in swearing to questioners of the Fourth Estate that he had not "talked as much as a single word with any prospective successor to Traynor" . . . He didn't, no doubt, but Mr. Schulz did.

WHAT IS MORE—Joseph and Frankie were talking business still when your reporter greeted them both early today at the Ritz Roof . . . State Senator John E. Kerrigan was with them, and it is with some fear that the South Boston politician—a close friend of this department—may be blamed for a few revelations to follow that we "bail him out" at once . . . Johnnie didn't talk . . . His sense of propriety is too keen to intrude into a situation such as develops when a gentleman who wishes to stay undercover meets a reporter whose job it is to move him into the light . . . Johnnie did effect an introduction between your correspondent and Mr. Schulz, but Mr. S was just another guy named Joe for the moment.

BY SHEER GOOD LUCK—however—we were in the company this morning of James (155 M.) Cannon, a pretty heavy piece of artillery to have around when blasting away at a baseball situation . . . Jimmy's inseparable pal is Leominster Leo (The Lip) Durocher, who got along with Frisch like a Hatfield with a McCoy . . . As baseball reporter for the New York American, assigned (because of his knack of writing comedy) to the Brooklyn Dodgers, Jimmy came to know most of the personalities in the National League . . . He knew Mr. Schulz . . . That, my friends, was that . . . There's going to be a clean sweep of the Benswangers . . . But—hold your hat—who in the world do you think Manager Frisch will seek as an important replacement for one of the Pirate pitchers? . . . None other than Jerome "Dizzy" Dean . . . And who in the world do you think Manager Frisch considers the most courageous ballplayer he has ever managed? . . . Ole Diz's brother, Paul "Daffiness" Dean . . . Well, that should bail out Senator Kerrigan . . . Messrs. Dean and Schulz weren't being that open with their secrets last night or this morning . . . Oh, yes . . . Announcement of Frisch's signing may happen tomorrow or Monday, although President Benswager says he will name his "Next Manager" Tuesday.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Don Francisco, president of the important advertising agency, Lord and Thomas, came to town last night. He will address a conference at the Statler Tuesday on the subject "Advertising and Democracy" . . . Rudy Vallee won't be off the air long. He (exclusive) will get one of the oil company periods . . . In tomorrow's column you may read that Police Captain James Daily is headed for Station 4 . . . He was, but the chances are only 50-50 now . . . (Explanatory note: Sunday's column goes to press before this one does).

'SUSAN AND GOD' BID TO POWELL

By Louella O. Parsons

William Powell

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30—David Selznick is reviving Ference Molnar's oft-produced play, "The Swan," with Ingrid Bergman as the princess and Alan Marshal as the tutor. I can never think of "The Swan" without remembering Frances Howard, the beautiful Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn. She only made a few movie appearances and "The Swan" was one of them. Originally Eva Le Gallienne and Basil Rathbone appeared in the stage play and later Lillian Gish did a talkie version on the screen, so you see it is chuck full of memories.

David—Mr. Selznick to you—says he will bring back Miss Bergman, who recently finished "Intermezzo," soon after the first of the year. She returned to her native Sweden and not to Germany as was printed. True she was once a UFA actress but she has cabled the Selznick office that she has no intention of going to Berlin.

IF THE DOCTORS will permit Bill Powell to make two pictures in such a short time, Bill will co-star with Greer Garson in "Susan and God" as soon as he finishes the new "Thin Man." Powell, of course, is ideal for the part and everybody from George Cukor, who will direct, and Miss Garson on down is keeping their fingers crossed hoping that another picture so soon will not tax Bill's strength too much.

• • •

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD—Jane Wyman has entered the Queen of Angels for observation and a rest; Janet Gaynor and Adrian dining all by their lonesomes at the Cafe Lamaze—a perfect picture of newlyweds; Jack Benny planed in and dined with his Mary, Bob Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck. A talented foursome; Don Roberts, former sports writer, has joined the Selznick publicity department and will work under the Russell Birdwell aegis; Anderson Lawler accompanied the Jack Warners to New York for a holiday; Buddy Westmore and Rosemary Lane are still that way about each other; Judith Barrett and her boss' son, Frank Freeman, Jr., are keeping step together.

WHERE IS LESLIE HOWARD? Is he in England or in New York? Mike Levee says Europe and he ought to know. Others say not; Jeanne Cagney, Jimmy's actress sister, is in bed with the flu; the John Garfields introducing their infant son to Hollywood social life via the Brown Derby; George Jessel is in town for the week-end at the Beverly Hills Hotel. He still hasn't given up hope of reconciling with Norma Talmadge.

DAILY STORY

Mystery Man

OUR JOLLY CROWD on the slow-going freighter called him The Mystery Man. He never joined in our fun.

One night, as I was looking at the moon coming out of the sea, he approached and bumped into me.

Murmuring an apology, he drew back. But there was something about him that affected me strangely.

Next evening we met again on deck and I was calmer. "The sea is even more beautiful when night closes in," I volunteered as he moved uncertainly toward me.

Silence. He had not heard, I presumed. "Count those stars if you can," I added.

"I loathe darkness," he then cried out in a voice which startled me. Without further explanation he rushed away.

THREE DAYS PASSED before I saw the Mystery Man again. We were in the lounge at cocktail hour. He took a chair next to mine and suddenly blurted, "I'm going blind. Every day I see less. Soon will come eternal blackness. Already everything is a shadow. Your face, your hair, your figure—I can only guess their beauty."

"But," and there was savage desperation in his tone, "I do not have to see your voice. To me it is YOU."

"I'm sorry," I said. "Is there no hope?"

"None. Just a few days more of light, then perpetual night. That is why I came on this trip—my last. I had abandoned hope and steeled myself for the worst. Then you appeared, and I dared wish that you and I might—"

He hesitated, for instinctively I gasped.

"Meet me here tomorrow night at ten," he pleaded. "If you don't come I'll understand. If you do, I'll know paradise."

The next 24 hours were agony. I wanted luxury. I had taken this trip in the hope that I might meet a man who might provide the kind of life I had always dreamed about.

THE SHIP'S BELL! Ten o'clock! He was on the deck—waiting. I was in my cabin—weeping. I wanted to rush out. But something restrained me.

A cry! The clatter of running feet. A siren screaming in the foggy darkness!

In a stupor I arose, staggered through the door, groped my way up the stairs.

"Man overboard! Man overboard!" I did not have to ask who.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

MARION ISN'T reading the papers these days. Won't let the youngsters turn on the European broadcasts. Puts her foot down if anyone starts an argument.

"Life's sad enough without going out of our way to learn all these horrors," Marion says. "I'm sure I've enough to do—taking care of Jim and the children, doing my duty right here at home—without cluttering my mind with that nightmare. It isn't OUR quarrel. We didn't make it...and we've no right to let it spoil our lives."

Looking at Marion, it seems quite plain that no nightmare has spoiled HER life. There isn't a line in her calm, pleasant face...or a rough note in her lovely, low voice. She's practicing what she preaches—is Marion. Living in some safe, peaceful haven of the mind—far from the terror and agony that's riding the rest of the world.

"ISN'T SHE WONDERFUL!" people say. "So wise—to keep herself above it all." WONDERFUL? WISE? I WONDER!

Is it true that this ghastly turmoil in Europe is "none of our business?" Had we no part in its making? I suspect we had a very large part! I don't believe that Germany or England, France or Poland are exclusively responsible for this horror. I believe the whole human race is responsible. It isn't just Hitler's fault. It's the fault of all human nature...

THIS THING DIDN'T START IN ANY ONE LAND OR ANY ONE MIND. IT STARTED WHEREVER THERE'S ENVY AND GREED, FEAR AND HATE, STUPIDITY AND CRUELTY, SELFISHNESS AND EGOTISM.

IT STARTED WHEREVER MEN ARE STILL HALF CIVILIZED...HALF APE—AND THAT'S EVERYWHERE!

You've helped make this war. I've helped make it. I've a bad temper. Every time I've given way to that temper, I contributed to that war. You're envious. Every time you gave way to that envy you contributed to that war.

THERE ARE only two classes of people who are immune from mental participation in this world tragedy—INFANTS and IDIOTS. If you won't read papers today, if you won't listen to the radio, if you won't join in discussions—YOU ARE EITHER AN INFANT OR AN IDIOT.

N. E. Industry Near Top Speed

Activity speedometers show New England's industrial wheels are whirling faster and faster . . . Indicator needles move higher with hardly a quiver as manufacturing and distribtion accelerate.

PERCENTAGE . . . Gains from week to week attest to the speed with which the section is moving forward . . . Carloadings and electric power output are star performers in the statistical section . . . While leather is frontrunner among basic materials . . . With Dun & Bradstreet reporting shoe manufacturers actively buying all leather available and tanners limiting sales per customer . . . Wool prices have also followed a torrid pace . . . With new highs established all around and business continuing very active still better results are foreseen . . . Particularly since no one can yet tell how much wool will be available for import this year . . . From the standpoint of the mills profit prospects are good . . . Operations in the first 7 months were 99 per cent ahead of 1938 . . . And the war abruptly ended the late August lull . . . While the resultant upturn in prices and production promoted nice inventory profits . . .

• • •

THE FUTURE . . . Looks bright for Massachusetts people, in the opinion of James H. Kennedy, president of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League . . . As he views conditions increasing prosperity is ahead . . . And increased activity in real estate will accompany industrial improvement . . . As Mr. Kennedy sees it this will mean many families whose incomes and requirements have been running neck and neck for several years will have a surplus . . . Which they can use either for savings or purchase of things of lasting value . . . In the latter case homes of their own . . . But regardless of the direction in which the surplus funds flow co-operative banks are in a position to serve the public . . .

• • •

FINANCING . . . Of mortgages on attractive payment plans has long been a favorite method of home buyers . . . And at present, Mr. Kennedy reports Bay State banks have adequate funds for financing . . . For those whose personal needs run more to cash savings the banks offer serial shares . . . These are insured under State law and bring attractive returns . . . Savings put into co-operative serial or installment shares encourage systematic thrift and are considered exceptionally attractive . . .

• • •

OBSERVERS . . . Of technical action say the market is now in the most critical position in weeks . . . Or since the war boom began . . . Their opinions are based on the retreat of industrial stocks to the low of September 18 . . . The importance of this level rests in the fact it marked a turning point which failed to carry to a new high . . . When such a failure is followed by a retreat to new lows chartists usually agree stocks have postponed for an indefinite and usually a protracted, period a new move to higher grounds . . . Thus their anxious following of current action around the September 18 level . . . A low under it will dampen their spirits for days to come . . .

• • •

ANTICIPATION . . . of the above situation led to advices printed here Wednesday . . . Then stop loss protection was suggested for trading interests . . . It is still a good idea until a better view of the future is offered by the market itself . . .

The speculator with a clean sheet can pick up war babies on quick spills on same basis . . . His theorizing is that if the lows hold a good rally is likely and he will be in at close to low prices . . . While touching off stop loss protection will result in small losses well worth the chance taking involved . . .

War Babies Regain Lost Buying Favor

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—Buyers pushed shares likely to benefit from a prolonged European conflict higher in today's stock market and leaders added fractions to five points or more.

Activity was moderate at the opening and continued at a fair rate thereafter. At the finish prices were near the best of the day.

Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

Return of the "war infants" to favor after their temporary eclipse yesterday was based largely on the belief Prime Minister Chamberlain in the British House of Commons Monday would announce the rejection by Britain and France of the Russo-German peace move.

England, it was argued, would not be likely to bargain on the basis of a partitioned Poland, with the "menace of Hitlerism" which Chamberlain once mentioned, unchanged.

Other diplomatic moves lent argument to those who think the present war will continue for perhaps the three years the British premier said was possible.

Turkey, it was reported, had notified Britain and France that in case they warred with Russia, her mutual assistance obligations to them would be considered annulled. She was also said to have agreed with Russia to close the Black Sea to belligerents, thus making it impossible for the allies to strike Germany from the south and east.

Domestic news items seemed to be ignored as traders weighed the dispatches from abroad.

LABOR OUT TO RETAIN 40 HOURS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor coupled a report of increased employment today with an announcement of its determination to prevent increases in work hours which might nullify effects of the business upturn on employment.

The A. F. of L. said that early September reports from trade unions in 24 industrial cities showed employment of union members at a higher level than at any time since the fall of 1937. General unemployment was estimated to have decreased from 10,308,000 in July to slightly below 10,000,000 in September, although still far above the figure of 7,500,000 for September, 1937.

"We see some hope," the report added, "that with business activity advancing 13 per cent from mid-August to mid-September and prospects for further increases ahead, jobs may be found in private industry to replace WPA. This hope depends, however, on preventing increases in work hours."

Labor is confident, the report said, that far-sighted employers "will recognize their responsibility" and not ask their employes to accept longer work hours while there are 10,000,000 unemployed.

"Labor is determined that this shall not happen today," the report declared. "The 40-hour week is now established by union agreement over a wide area of American industry. This hour schedule must be maintained."

Store Sales Jump

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board estimated today that department store sales in the week ended Sept. 23 were 3 per cent higher than a year ago. Boston led with a gain of 27 per cent.

FINISHED GOODS LEAD IN TEXTILE ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—Finished goods moved to the front of the textile scene this week when marked expansion in demand accompanied higher prices.

Such items as sheets, pillowcases, wash goods and towels were most in call, and there were forecasts in the trade of higher prices to come.

Activity in the gray goods division calmed down a bit but mills found no difficulty maintaining quotations at the full advances of the past few weeks. Business in print cloths and broadcloths was on a fair scale. Lack of jute supplies for sandbag purposes brought in considerable demand for light ducks and osnaburgs as substitutes.

Gray goods manufacturers were reluctant to go far into 1940 because of the uncertainties of raw cotton prices and manufacturing costs under the new wage-hour law.

Rayon trade was broad but here, too, actual turnover was handicapped by increasing difficulty in obtaining orders for forward delivery. Loom operations on standard rayon fabrics continued to expand.

Silk fabrics business came almost to a stop while the market watched the raw silk price line. Bulk of the activity was in hosiery where branded producers advanced an average of 75 cents a dozen on lower-priced types.

Wool goods section calmed down as buyers digested recent price boosts. A close eye was kept on raw wool markets here and abroad. Men's wear mills booked a large business but there was some question whether orders could be taken care of in full.

Burlap trade was hampered by shortage of supplies and erratic price movements.

ALL RACES GOOD, BOYS ADVISED

Prof. J. Anton de Haas of the Harvard Business School, noted authority on international economic relations who has just returned from a European trip, called upon 700 newsboys at the Burroughs Newsboys Foundation to remember that all nationalities and all races are decent and friendly.

Talking to an audience whose average age was under 14, Prof. de Haas gained cheer after cheer from the boys when he told of his experiences around the globe and the cordial response he had met everywhere.

Cautioning them that the Germans as a people were as friendly as any other nation, he outlined to them simply the false propaganda the German government was issuing. They laughed and clapped when he said that "if Germany had as many highways as she claims there wouldn't be enough room to plant potatoes."

Ship Strikes Curbed by War

Labor peace on American waterfronts has resulted from the European war, it became known today. It was revealed that maritime and waterfront unions on both coasts have agreed to truces which guarantee American shipping against interference by union causes for several weeks at least.

All maritime and waterfront labor contracts are due to expire today, but the CIO maritime unions, West Coast longshoremen unions and the East Coast A. F. of L. Longshoremen's Association have agreed, in view of war conditions, to remain on the old agreements, also to give at least one month's notice before any strike vote.

Win 2 Years' Wages Without Working

Although it had never hired two prospective employes, a Manchester N. H., firm must pay them two years' wages, the National Labor Relations board sitting in Washington ruled today.

Charges had been presented that the Waumbeck Mills, Inc., has been guilty of discrimination "in regard to hire" against Alphonse Chartier and Edward G. Geoffrion. The men, both active in affairs of a local chapter of the United Textile Workers of America, A. F. L., had applied for jobs in July, 1937, and had been told it was "no use," according to the charges.

The PRIVATE LIFE of Dr. Hilary

by HENRY and SYLVIA LIEFERANT
AUTHORS OF "DOCTORS' WIVES"

PAINFUL and revolutionary as the new vision was, Martin knew it to be no original discovery with him. Many men lived by it, numbers had been born with it, especially in the smaller centers and remote places where the eternal pressure of the city did not destroy a man's sense of values.

And here in the city, too, men managed to follow the trail, by making it clearly and walking steadfastly.

He understood now that his procedure with Phoebe had been a distortion. Obviously every patient without money could not be showered with a private room and private nurses.

It was undesirable that they should be, an indulgence with no point. Again, he thought, it isn't more time, more money, better equipment that are needed in the clinics and wards, in the free health centers.

A man must make the best of the equipment offered, and thereby improve it.

Of course, those with money should pay. Some people would always take advantage, but a Guiding Hand would balance the budget. His private practice need not suffer. It must improve, and he believed that now.

To work by percentage was stultifying—so much of his life to paying patients, so much to the non-paying patients, and a barrier between them.

Service could not be divided into pigeonhole portions. He must serve without pattern, freely give, freely receive.

It would be a large task to change himself, perhaps the greatest operation of his life, but he had Nora to help him.

Did he? He had to know. Without Nora good God, there could be no value to life without Nora and the boy.

HOME TO NORA!

Not since Martin had taken over Dr. Arnold's practice had he gone home at 5 o'clock. He was going now.

Peter was not putting in full time at the conservatory because of his hand. He had only one hour of composition and harmony early in the afternoon. Martin was grateful that his befuddled memory could still supply that information.

Hat and coat in hand, he passed through the reception room. Skean met him. "Going, Doctor?"

"Yes." He pressed his big hand into her shoulders. "Thanks, Skean."

In the taxi, he began to plan what he would say to Nora, to convince her; how he would present his new case to win her to his side once more.

Argument after argument he arranged neatly, each one separate, like instruments laid out for surgery; and then he caught himself up.

Always he had planned too carefully, set himself hard and inflexible designs, overwhelming his opponent with the sheer glitter of his advocacy.

There seemed to be an intelligence in any given situation which found its true expression if permitted to work. He would say to Nora whatever the moment demanded.

• • •

Nora and Peter dawdled over an early supper. In a way the slight accident to Peter's hand had been helpful to both of them

For Nora the child's added hours with her meant relief from the insidious solitude, and an opportunity to coax the boy, if possible, back to a semblance of his natural equanimity.

For Peter it meant more play and air and sunshine. He chattered about Thanksgiving, throwing out feelers concerning Christmas. Then they began to play a musical game wherein one hummed a phrase and the other must identify it, and begin the next phrase with the last note of the previous one.

"I KNOW"

He interrupted abruptly to say, "You know, Mom, I was most sorry the other day that I picked you and Dad for parents."

"Were you? And are you sure you picked us?"

"I did so. I had a choice and I picked you."

Who knew? Maybe the boy was right. "And are you still sorry?"

"I dunno." He lifted his curly black head sharply, started sliding off the chair. "Dad's coming!" he shouted.

"Not at this hour, Peter. I don't think he'll be coming home much now, anyway. Especially for meals. Do finish your dessert."

"I heard his key. I——"

She heard the key turn, too, and the door close quietly. "Peter," she commanded. "Stay here. Don't leave this room, and if you have to walk around, go into the kitchen to Helga."

Martin and Nora stood several feet apart, exploring each other's face. He was straight and tall as a November tree stripped of the concealment of leaves and therefore revealing its true shape, its fundamental strength.

"Home so early, Martin?"

"Home, Nora. Home!"

She was lovely as a dark pearl, but lusterless, hidden from light and the vibrancy of human contact too long.

"Nora—you understand, don't you?"

"I know, Martin—and I'm here."

The faint glow of a light approaching from a distance began to fill the black chasm between them, and magnetized by a kindred, secret ray within her, suddenly restored the lustre. She waited for Martin to come to her.

Love

This Boy Just Too Good

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

For over a year now, Ive been going with a girl of 18 years. I'm 21, and very much in love. We have seeing each other every night in the week, and I've taken her to movies, concerts and parties. This was her idea that I come every night, and lately she says to come only three or four nights a week.

I've tried in every way to please her, but I'm not steadily employed, and am unable to spend money on her every evening. She seems so dissatisfied with me all he time. Do you suppose it's because she's so sure of me that she gets cantankerous? What would you suggest?

TOM.

Well, my dear, I think the trouble with this young lady is that you've been too good to her, and she doesn't appreciate you. Why don't you try taking out some other girl occasionally, and see if that would not bring her to terms?

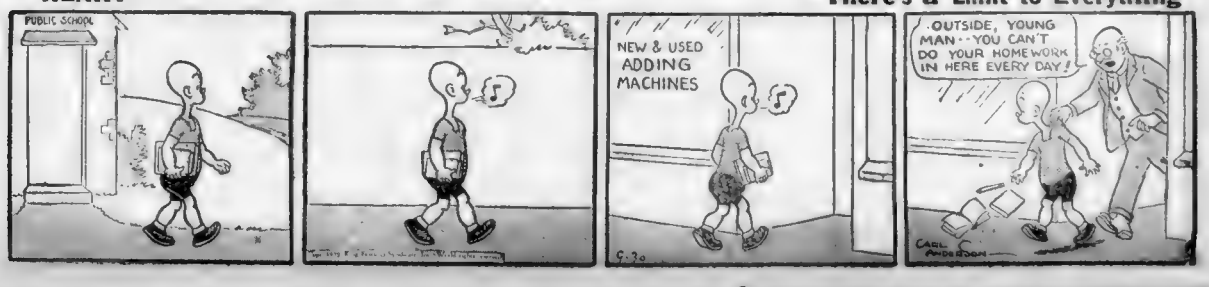
HENRY



There's a Limit to Everything

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

A JOLLY SEASON of football madness officially got under way today with more than a score of important games scheduled in various parts of the country.

Holy Cross against Manhattan at Worcester, Boston College and Lebanon Valley at the Heights, and Northeastern against St. Anselm at Kent Field will be served local fans.

The Notre Dame-Purdue clash in the West also received considerable attention from Eastern fans. Notre Dame is still the college of the man on the street. The "Fighting Irish" have more supporters than any other institution among those millions of people who graduated from the College of Hard Knocks.

Notre Dame is living up to recent program arrangements in meeting a sturdy opponent at the start of the season. There are not any soft games for the eleven from Notre Dame. The "Irish" begin their training early, and are better prepared than Harvard and some of our other colleges to step into a major game at the opening whistle of the fall campaign.

In the local field, Holy Cross and Manhattan attracted the most attention. It is an exceptionally good attraction for this stage of the season.

Football is back to normal with the colleges. When the students marched back to college this month, there was considerable unrest on account of the war in Europe. College authorities have impressed on the students that the most healthful thing for American youths to do is to go about their studies and athletics as usual. The public also looks to football for a mental relief from the more serious things of life. The football season is short with about two months of intensified action. Then come the Bowl games which hold the interest of the public for another five weeks.

Football has probably been over-emphasized, but such a happening is not the worst thing that could have occurred.

Harvard will not get into action until a week from today when it will take on Bates. Harvard does not believe in the Notre Dame system of opening with a major game. The Harvard program system is wise in view of the lateness of starting fall football practice.

While the big college games will take most of the limelight, there will also be intense interest in thousands of schoolboy contests that will be played in New England this fall. It is not uncommon for some of these schoolboy clashes to attract 10,000 people. There are people who insist that the schoolboys give more action than the college teams, and that they are expert students of modern football.

I make it a point to take in several schoolboy games each fall, and I have been amazed at the brilliance of some of the youngsters representing our Greater Boston schools.

World Series Has New Interest

THE WORLD SERIES will take on a new interest this year with the Cincinnati Reds trying to topple the Yanks from their perch at the top of the baseball world. A year ago few people thought the Cubs had much of a chance of winning the world's championship. The triumph of the Cubs in the National League race was due more to the fact the Pirates got the jitters and collapsed than to any exceptional ability on the part of Gabby Hartnett's club.

It is a different story with the Reds. They proved conclusively they were the best team in the National League, while they also stood up like champions when pressed by the Cardinals in their recent series.

The Reds have pitchers, a strong defense and batting power.

I note that when the baseball experts discuss the strength of the Reds they give more than passing consideration to Manager Bill McKechnie. Without McKechnie at the helm, the Cardinals or some other club would have won the National League flag. McKechnie made few mistakes in directing his club in a torrid pennant pace. He may be relied upon to call his shots correctly in the coming games with the Yanks.

Boston is usually an American League town, but in the coming series I believe the fans would like to see the Reds win. They have tired of the baseball supremacy of the Yanks, and they would also like to see McKechnie come out on top. Bill made many friends here during the years he managed the Braves.

There have also been some long shots like Peaceful, but on the whole it has been a week for those bettors who like to back what they consider the solid horse . . . It will be a fighter against a boxer when Ceferino Garcia clashes with Fred Apostoli in the New York Garden on Monday night . . . ST. ANSELM ROLLS OVER NORTHEASTERN

Both coaches made changes in their opening lineups Joe Duca replacing Austin at fullback for the Hawks, and Alex truzzelo replacing Ray Yetten at fullback for Northeastern

FIRST PERIOD

Two passes into the end zone after recovering a Northeastern fumble and a long 38-yard heave, were responsible for two scores by St. Anselms in the first period making the count 12 to 0.

The first Hawk pass was for 20 yards and came after the Hawks recovered their own kick on the N. U.s 30-yard line. Then Roy McLean, St. Anselms' speediest and versatile back, who was bottled up on the ground, went into action. He flipped a 20-yard pass to Boule, which put the ball on the Husky's five. Then he thiew another pass to Jaworek for the score. Boule missed the conversion.

The second Hawk score came when Boule, standing on his own [redacted] yard line, thiew a long pass to Taylor, who nabbed it on the 30 and sped along the sidelines to make it 12 to 0, the try for the extra point failed.

Finding the N. U. pass offense vulnerable, St. Anselms continued to attack through that route. McLean wound up again and completed a 13-yard pass to Johnson on the N. U. 40, from where the receiver scooted along the sidelines to score. Tanona's try for the extra point was no good.

Score: St. Anselms 18, N. U. 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Northeastern countered with a score and a point in this period, making the tally St. Anselm's 18, N. U. 7. The Husky offense got started on their own 35, with Yetten doing most of the carrying.

Yetten made 14 yards through the line to his own 26. Northeastern attempted a fake kick but was sweared.

McLean took the punt on his 30 and was nailed on the 34. Two fumbles in a row pushed the Hawks back to the 20. Jawarek's kick was caught by Caswell who was downed on the 36.

Yetten picked up five through the line. A minute later, he made it a first down on the Hawk's 48 Yetten to Caswell was good for 15 yards, putting the ball on the Hawk's 35. Yetten wriggled to the 24-yard line for another first down At this point the Hawks were penalized 15 yards, putting the ball on their own 10. Yetten was thrown for a five-yard loss on the next play. Harding faded back and shot a 16-yard pass to Holmes in the end zone. Tubbs kicked the extra point, making the score St. Anselms 18. N. U. 7.

Cronin Signs For Five Years

By JOE CASHMAN

Meet square-jawed Joseph Edward Cronin, modern baseball's Cinderella Man.

At the age of 32 this Irish lad from Frisco has been a big league manager for seven years and he's now signed up to pilot the Red Sox for five more years.

He is reported to have received $25,000 yearly for his first five years with the Hose. It is believed he'll draw down $30,000 annually for the next five semesters at the Fens.

In the present century's history of the major leagues no other manager, save John McGraw and Connie Mack, ever was given two successive five year contracts with the same club. And McGraw and Mack were part owners of their entries, while Cronin is only a hired hand, albeit a most expensive one who cost the record price of $250,000 to bring here from Washington in 1935.

CRONIN HAS EARNED MONEY

When Boss Joe completes his term under his latest contract he'll have served longer than anybody else ever has at the helm of a Boston big league club.

In this writer's opinion, Cronin has more than earned his new contract by the job he has done in his first five seasons here, and we think the large majority of New England fans feel the same way about it.

Three times he's finished in the first division; twice in second place. He's improved steadily as a manager, until he ranks with the most able in the business, and all the while he's kept on being the greatest shortstop and gamest all-around player in captivity.

The announcement that he had been engaged was more or less expected, but the news that he had been re-signed for five years surprised most people.

He actually has a life job with the Sox while Tom Yawkey remains in control of the franchise.

"I meant it when I said Joe could stay here as long as I'm here," stated the Fenway foreman in giving out the news of the new contract.

CRONIN SATISFIES YAWKEY

"He's the type of athlete, sportsman and executive I want connected with my baseball family. The money I spent for him I consider the best baseball investment I ever made.

"How much longer Joe will continue to play is entirely up to himself. I hope he'll feel equal to the task of playing shortstop for several years. When he thinks he should quit active service, he'll become a bench manager. If he doesn't like that job, he can move up to the front office."

That last statement should definitely end all the rumors that have been circulated this season to the effect that Cronin might not be here longer than another year, if that long.

Yawkey admitted that it was reports hinting that Cronin might not be re-signed which caused him to break earlier resolutions to say nothing about the matter until after the current season was finished.

"I wanted Joe to sign this new contract in the middle of the summer," Marse Tom asserted, "but he always put me off, saying he had more important things. All along, however, he knew just how he stood with me.

"Last week we finally sat down, I presented my proposal and Joe said he was more than satisfied.

"No, I won't say whether or not he received an increase in salary. You can draw your own conclusions."

Along with this revelation, Yawkey announced that he had signed Jimmy Foxx, Ted Williams, Jim Tabor and Bobby Doerr to 1940 contracts.

"Williams, Tabor and Doerr, all granted increases, were signed last week," he said. "Foxx came to town yesterday to pack some things and while here, agreed to terms.

WILLIAMS, TABOR O. K.

"I didn't plan to say anything about this until after the World Series, at the earliest. But on second thought I figured one or all of these players might let the information leak out after reaching their winter homes. Then it would reach here from outside sources and the local press boys would rightly burn up.

"So I decided to make a clean breast of everything, including the Cronin contract.

"Williams and Tabor were most reasonable. I didn't have a bit of trouble satisfying either. And no more with Foxx and Doerr."

Meggers, Pets Meet at Garden

The Olympets meet one of their major rivals tonight on the Garden floor, when they cross bats with the Connecticut State titlists, the Stamford Nutmegs, in a return engagement.

In the first clash between these two outstanding New England clubs, the Bostonians emerged the winners after a 11-inning struggle by a 6-5 count. In that tussle the Pets had to come from behind a 0-5 score to win.

The "Meggers," like the Pets are a first year team, but have piled up a most impressive record for the season. To date the Stamford lasses have played 28 contests and won 24 of them. Their ace hurler, Marge Caldwell, has pitched them to 23 wins on 27 attempts.

SHINE BUCKLEY DON BUCKLEY BOB QUINTILIANI LANNY LOMBARDI MIKE BARBA

Charlestown Grid Coach Optimistic

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

Charlestown high school's hopes soar higher than its Bunker Hill monument but its possibilities for the coming football season at the Beehive appear no stronger than in other years when the Coach Bill Ford outfit regularly proved the pop-over of the Boston circuit.

Three veteran linemen form the nucleus of the eleven that the mentor has been working out daily at the Sullivan sq. playgrounds.

This eleven, according to Ford, will hold its own with any of the district schools, but after that it's much of a tossup as to whom to put into the game. The squad is small and the reserves, capable of the rating of shock troops, are scarcer than pay raises.

Ford lost his two big stars, one by graduation, the other by a transfer. Denny Monagle set the pace for the team last year while helping Tom Brennan gain experience, but after the close of the grid season Brennan left to attend Boston English, where he will be a first string back.

LACK BALL CARRIERS

The big problem this fall will be to fill in these vacancies. Both boys were backs and their absence leaves the team without an experience ball carrier.

With Brennan back, Charlestown might have turned into a serious threat in the district schools but even without him Coach Ford looks forward to a fair season.

"The first teams looks pretty good," declares Ford, "but they can't play an entire game without rest.

"Capable substitutes are rare but we can at least hope for a big of success. The line is light, averaging about 150 pounds while the backfield, a bit heavier, might develop as the season progresses.

REBUILD BACKFIELD

Rebuilding the backfield, Ford has Bill "Snuffy" Kent, Owen O'Neil, Dave Myers, Tut Brown and Bob White battling for first string berths. Kent, a fine passer and kicker, appears right now to be the only certainty to open the season against Roslindale, the coach's home town, next Thursday.

Frank Ash and Bill Duffey have stood out over other candidates for the ball carrier's berths. Ash has been particularly impressive working with the seconds and may still move into the starting line-up before game time.

Veteran Tim Sullivan will be back at an end while Tom Mullen, who saw some service last year, and Mike Flamia still battle for the other starting post. Fred Thompson has been bidding strongly for a wing and may surprise the leading candidates.

Capt. Frank Todd and Jim Bright will be at the tackles with Bill English and Fred Greatorex at the guards.

KELLY, FERRY SHOCK TROOPS

At center, John "Nobby" Martin has the starting assignment clinched. Martin played last year on the first club and will be playing an iron man role this season.

to a number of off-side penalties. The longest gain was chalked up when Amorosa of Everett skirted around his left end for 19 yards to Leominster's 20, where Everett lost the ball on downs.

The rest of the period see-sawed back and forth, with very little headway by either team.

SECOND PERIOD

Everett capitalized in the second period on a fumble by Piccui of Leominster to score a touchdown, when Amorosa, on a wide left end run, cut down the sideline behind the blocking of Finos for a touchdown. Gianelli's attempt for the extra point missed by inches. At the beginning of the second period, Newton of Leominster intercepted a down the alley Everett pass on his own 30-yard line. On the next play a high pass from center to Piccui, the fumble occurred with the resultant Everett score.

Score—Everett 6, Leominster 0.

THIRD PERIOD

A brilliant Everett passing attack led to Everett's second touchdown in the closing minutes of the third period when a pass from Flynn, standing on Leominster's 33, to Amorosa on Leominster's 25. Amorosa scurried the remaining 25 yards for another Everett touchdown. Gianelli kicked the point.

Score—Everett 13, Leominster 0.

Navy Scores On W. and M.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 30 (AP)—A blazing sun simmered down on half-empty stands today as William and Mary met Navy in the football game that opened the Midshipmen's 1939 season.

FIRST PERIOD

The Indians gained an advantage when they recovered Lens's fumble on Navy's 25, but Navy promptly recovered a William and Mary fumble and Wood kicked to the Indian 20. A pass, Birchfield to Phillips, netted the visitors 50 yards, but Navy held for downs inside their 15, and Wood kicked out 70 yards.

The Invaders completed two passes—one from behind the goal—for two first downs, and navy countered with a pair on the ground.

Navy worked the ball down to the Indian 18 on a series of off-tackle bucks, and Rowse scored standing up. Wood missed the point.

Furman Holds Army in First

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—Sullen skies carried a continual threat of rain as Army opened its football season today against Furman University. About 5000 fans were present.

FIRST PERIOD

A poor punt by Lipscomb shortly after Army had kicked off put Furman in the hole, with the ball in the Cadets' possession on the Furman 33. Army was unable to gain, and Frontczak dropped back from the 30-yard line and tried a place kick, which was low. Lipscomb ran it back three yards to the Furman 4, and then he and Shetley broke away from nice gains to carry the ball out of the danger zone.

SECOND PERIOD

Maupin took the ball over from the two on the second play of the period for a touchdown, and Frontczak place kicked the extra point to put Army in front 7 to 0. Shetley tried to run the next kickoff out and got only as far as the Furman five. Lipscomb punted outside on the Furman 36, where Army started another drive which reached the Furman nine, from where Frontczyk dropped back to the 15 and place kicked a field goal to make the score 10-0.

Medford

Melrose suffered a five-yard penalty for being off side and Jacobs kicked to Medford 20. After Zarela made a yard through center and Edgerly six on a right end reverse, Murray punted to the Melrose 38.

YANKEES BEAT SOX BY 5 TO 4

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—Jim Bagby, who is making his first start since his return to the Red Sox after a sojourn in the minors was chosen to pitch the opening game of a doubleheader against the Yankees, this afternoon, while Monty Pearson, who may be one of Joe McCarthy's choices in the World Series, opposed him. Inclement weather held the crowd down to about 8000.
